Take one to learn more about ULSD fuel.

ULSD will be the dominant diesel fuel produced after June 1, 2006.

- New EPA standards require a major reduction in the sulfur content of diesel fuels
- ULSD fuel contains less sulfur to improve air quality significantly
- Model year 2007 and later highway diesel engines and vehicles will be equipped with advanced emission control devices and must use ULSD fuel
- Federal regulations require the labeling of all diesel fuel pumps to specify the type of fuel dispensed by each pump
