

Section 27

Public Safety

This section applies to the safety and operational protections associated with the generating turbines. To the extent it applies to the generator lead transmission line, the line is a standard 115-kilovolt transmission line designed to National Electrical Code Standards, 2007.