

THIRTY YEARS AGO

this week President Reagan signed into law the Nuclear Waste Policy Act confirming the federal government's responsibility to create a national storage solution for this country's current and future nuclear waste. Congress approved Yucca Mountain as the best place to store highly radioactive nuclear waste.

YUCCA MOUNTAIN

The Obama Administration disagreed and cancelled funding for Yucca Mountain meaning the waste is stranded 600 yards from the nearest residences on the Prairie Island Indian Community.

FOR THE
PRAIRIE ISLAND INDIAN COMMUNITY THAT MEANS OUR BACKYARD.

PRAIRIE ISLAND

Thirty years is ample time for the U.S. government to uphold its obligation and remove nuclear waste from Prairie Island and other sites across the country.

WHERE DO YOU THINK WE SHOULD STORE THE NATION'S NUCLEAR WASTE?

Tell the Obama Administration and your member of Congress to fulfill the federal government's promise to safely and securely store the nation's mounting nuclear waste.
