Heating Oil Price Averages Dropping

Augusta--- The Governor’s Office of Energy Independence and Security (OEIS) conducted it’s off season oil survey and has found that the current statewide average cash price for No. 2 heating oil to be at $2.26 per gallon $.06 lower than last week’s survey.

“While the petroleum market fundamentals of supply demand and inventories point to lower prices the heating oil market is still subject to volatility and wide spread fluctuations,” says OEIS Director John Kerry. “All Maine consumers should prepare for next winter’s heating season today by taking steps to weatherize their homes and carefully planning a budget.”

As Of July 13, 2009
