

Visitor Checklist

To prepare for visits to your farm by customers, guests, and service providers while ensuring a safe, low-risk environment for your livestock.

SCAN FOR HOW

Have you...

	YES!
...established how to determine what kind of visitors are risky?	<input type="checkbox"/>
...created a Farm Zone diagram that identifies areas requiring high, medium, and low protection on your farm?	<input type="checkbox"/>
...placed signs instructing parking, farm area access, protocol for visiting and your contact information to visitors?	<input type="checkbox"/>
...set up a visitor sign-in log to record name, contact information and recent exposure to livestock?	<input type="checkbox"/>
...chosen and stocked up on boot disinfectant and/or boot/shoe coverings?	<input type="checkbox"/>
...provided ample hand wash stations, hand sanitizer, and trash cans with lids?	<input type="checkbox"/>
...added latched and locked gates with signage to prohibit entry to vulnerable areas?	<input type="checkbox"/>

Other Visitor Tips

Post your visitor policy on your website and at point of entry.

To lower daily risk, choose certain days and hours for visitors.

Do not allow visitors to feed or come in direct contact with your animals and think of providing them with a webcam viewing of protected areas.

Clearly mark designated parking areas with multiple signs, poles, and barrier tape or rope.

Add to the chore list the replenishing of soap, towels, hand sanitizer, disposable boot covers, boot wash and disinfectant.

