NOTICE OF DATA BREACH

Dear Sample A. Sample:

Spectrum Pharmaceuticals, Inc. (“Spectrum”) recently became aware of a data security incident that may have involved some of your personal information. The incident began on April 20, 2021, and we discovered that your personal information may have been impacted on May 10, 2021. We have no evidence that your personal information has been misused, but we take the protection of your personal information very seriously and are contacting you out of an abundance of caution.

What Happened?

On April 20, 2021, Spectrum was the target of a ransomware attack on its network, which it discovered through its automated threat detection systems. In response, Spectrum immediately launched an investigation and was able to disrupt and prevent further malicious activity. On May 10, 2021, our investigation confirmed that there was no evidence that any personal information had been acquired by the threat actors; however, we believe that the threat actors had access to a legacy location in our network where personal information was stored. As a result, while we have no evidence that your personal information was improperly acquired or misused, we are contacting you out of an abundance of caution. This notice has not been delayed due to law enforcement investigation.

What Information Was Involved?

The personal information that may have been accessed by the malicious threat actor included your name and Social Security number, and also may have included your previous or current physical address. Following this incident, Spectrum has implemented additional security measures across its environment, including with respect to the server containing the information.

What Are We Doing?

In response to this incident, Spectrum immediately retained a leading cybersecurity and digital forensics firm, and diligently investigated this incident. Spectrum has already deployed additional threat detection software, and has implemented new procedures to further enhance its threat prevention and detection capabilities. Spectrum has not seen any additional activity from the threat actors after these steps were put into place.

ADDITIONAL RESOURCES

Protecting Yourself from Identity Theft. It is always good practice to regularly review statements from your accounts for instances of fraud or identity theft, and immediately report any suspected unauthorized activity to the relevant financial institution(s). It is also a good practice to periodically monitor your credit reports, which are available to you free of charge. We recommend you remain vigilant with respect to reviewing your account statements and credit reports, and immediately report any suspicious activity or suspected identity theft to us, and to the proper law enforcement authorities, including local law enforcement, your state's attorney general, and/or the Federal Trade Commission ("FTC").

Annual Credit Report. You may obtain a free copy of your credit report online at www.annualcreditreport.com, by calling toll-free 1-877-322-8228, or by mailing an Annual Credit Report Request Form (available at www.annualcreditreport.com) to: Annual Credit Report Request Service, P.O. Box 105281, Atlanta, GA, 30348-5281. You may also obtain additional copies of your credit report by contacting one or more of the three national credit reporting agencies. The credit reporting agency may charge a fee. When you receive your credit reports, if you see anything you do not understand, call the credit reporting agency at the telephone number on the report.

Fraud Alerts. You may place a fraud alert in your credit file by contacting one of the three nationwide credit reporting agencies listed below. A fraud alert tells creditors to follow certain procedures, including contacting you before the creditor opens any new accounts or makes certain changes to your existing accounts. For those reasons, place a fraud alert can protect you, but may also delay you when you seek to obtain credit.

Security Freezes. You have the ability to place a free security freeze on your credit report free of charge. A security freeze will prevent a credit reporting agency from releasing information in your credit report without your express authorization. A security freeze is designed to prevent potential creditors from accessing your credit report without your consent. As a result, using a security freeze may interfere with or delay your ability to obtain credit. You must separately place a security freeze on your credit file with each credit reporting agency. To place a security freeze, you may be required to provide the credit reporting agency certain identifying information, including your full name; Social Security number; date of birth; current and previous addresses; a copy of your state-issued identification card; and a recent utility bill, bank statement, or insurance statement.
