By providing this notice, Unipro does not waive any rights or defenses regarding the applicability of Maine law, the applicability of the Maine data event notification statute, or personal jurisdiction.

Nature of the Data Event

Unipro recently experienced a data security incident that impacted its computer system and caused a temporary disruption to select business operations. Unipro immediately responded and launched an investigation to confirm the nature and scope of the incident, working with third-party computer forensics specialists to quickly restore and remediate impacted computer systems. The investigation determined that an unauthorized actor accessed and/or acquired a limited amount of personal information during a period of unauthorized access to Unipro's computer system. Unipro determined that information related to certain individuals may have been included in the impacted data set and accessible to the unauthorized actor between October 12, 2020 and October 27, 2020.

Working with forensics, Unipro made efforts to identify potentially impacted individuals and put resources in place to assist them as quickly as possible. On or about January 25, 2021, Unipro determined the scope of individuals impacted and their states of residence. Unipro cannot confirm specifically what information, if any, was viewed by the unauthorized actor. Out of an abundance of caution, Unipro is providing notice to individuals whose personal information may have been impacted by this event. The information present in the files that were accessed and/or acquired as a result of this incident included name and Social Security number.

Notice to Maine Resident

On or about March 10, 2021, Unipro is providing written notice of this incident to affected individuals, which includes approximately one (1) Maine resident. Written notice is being provided in substantially the same form as the letter attached here as Exhibit A.

Other Steps Taken and To Be Taken

Unipro treats its responsibility to safeguard personal information as an utmost priority. As such, Unipro responded immediately to this event and has been working diligently to identify individuals and provide them with an accurate and complete notice of the incident. Unipro's response to this event also included prompt correspondence with federal law enforcement authorities. As part of its ongoing commitment to the privacy and security of information in its care, Unipro has reviewed its existing policies and procedures relating to data protection and security. Unipro has also implemented enhanced security controls on its remote access system, changed system passwords, and upgraded security hardware. Unipro is evaluating additional security measures to mitigate any risk associated with this incident and to better prevent future incidents. Out of an abundance of caution, Unipro is providing potentially impacted individuals with access to complimentary credit monitoring and identity restoration services for one (1) year through TransUnion. Minor individuals are being provided complimentary access to identity monitoring services through Equifax.

Monitor Your Accounts

Under U.S. law, a consumer is entitled to one free credit report annually from each of the three major credit reporting bureaus, Equifax, Experian, and TransUnion. To order your free credit report, visit www.annualcreditreport.com or call, toll-free, 1-877-322-8228. You may also directly contact the three major credit reporting bureaus listed below to request a free copy of your credit report.

Consumers have the right to place an initial or extended “fraud alert” on a credit file at no cost. An initial fraud alert is a 1-year alert that is placed on a consumer’s credit file. Upon seeing a fraud alert display on a consumer’s credit file, a business is required to take steps to verify the consumer’s identity before extending new credit. If you are a victim of identity theft, you are entitled to an extended fraud alert, which is a fraud alert lasting seven years. Should you wish to place a fraud alert, please contact any one of the three major credit reporting bureaus listed below.

As an alternative to a fraud alert, consumers have the right to place a “credit freeze” on a credit report, which will prohibit a credit bureau from releasing information in the credit report without the consumer’s express authorization. The credit freeze is designed to prevent credit, loans, and services from being approved in your name without your consent. However, you should be aware that using a credit freeze to take control over who gets access to the personal and financial information in your credit report may delay, interfere with, or prohibit the timely approval of any subsequent request or application you make regarding a new loan, credit, mortgage, or any other account involving the extension of credit. Pursuant to federal law, you cannot be charged to place or lift a credit freeze on your credit report. To request a security freeze, you will need to provide the following information:

1. Full name (including middle initial as well as Jr., Sr., II, III, etc.);
2. Social Security number;
3. Date of birth;
4. Addresses for the prior two to five years;
5. Proof of current address, such as a current utility bill or telephone bill;
6. A legible photocopy of a government-issued identification card (state driver’s license or ID card, military identification, etc.); and
7. A copy of either the police report, investigative report, or complaint to a law enforcement agency concerning identity theft if you are a victim of identity theft.

Should you wish to place a fraud alert or credit freeze, please contact the three major credit reporting bureaus listed below:
