IMPORTANT INFORMATION	To receive benefits at the Network level, the services must be provided by an Anthem participating PPO provider. Benefits are based on a maximum allowance for covered services. The maximum allowance is the most that will be paid for a particular service. You are responsible for any copayments, deductibles and coinsurance that may apply. Services (for example, diagnostic and surgical services) received during or associated with an office visit or services ordered or rendered by a professional or provider may be subject to the applicable coinsurance and deductible (in addition to the copayment). Ask your professional or provider whether the services you have received are included in the copayment amount.	Coverage described in this column applies when you use an out of network provider. Benefits are based on a maximum allowance for covered services. The maximum allowance is the most that will be paid for a particular service. You may be responsible for filing claims and paying balance bills in addition to the copayments, deductible, and coinsurance. You may also need to pay the provider or professional up front.
INPATIENT ADMISSION REVIEW Note: Your participating provider calls 1-800-392-1016	All inpatient admissions, with the exception of emergency and maternity admissions, require pre-admission review. You, your physician or the provider must call the telephone number on your ID card for review before you are admitted. All Inpatient admissions for emergency and maternity services are subject to post-admission review. For post-admission review of an emergency admission, you, a family member, your physician, or the provider should call within 48 hours after you are admitted. For maternity post-admission review, you, a family member, your physician, or the provider should call if the hospital stay exceeds 48 hours for a vaginal delivery or 96 hours for a cesarean section. Failure to call for inpatient admission review could result in you paying unexpected charges.
