As part of our 51st Annual Convention, the Telecommunications Association of Maine is joining with the Maine State Chamber of Commerce to host a roundtable discussion on how to overcome difficulties in funding rural broadband. Featured guests on the roundtable include Dana Connors, President of the Maine State Chamber of Commerce, to discuss the recent Making Maine Work report; Heather Johnson, Executive Director of the ConnectME Authority, to discuss the State Broadband Action Plan; and Shekinah Bailey, General Field Representative from USDA, to discuss the federal eConnectivity Program.

The event is designed to be an open discussion among the participants. We want to share information with the people and communities in Rural Maine, but we also need to hear from you. What are your challenges, where have your successes been, and how can we move rural Maine forward.

Attendance at the roundtable is free, but please register in advance as space is limited.

Included in the TAM Convention is a Social Hour and Lobster Bake following the roundtable. If you wish to join us, please contact Kathy Bosse at Tidewater Telecom to find out how to register for the Annual Convention or to purchase a stand-alone meal ticket.

Meal tickets must be purchased prior to August 31.
