

How to Participate in the Maine Agricultural Trades Show

Start here. Is this event a good fit?

- ✓ I can meet planning timelines, agree to participant Terms and Conditions, and understand that the selection priority areas are:
- Maine-based producers, agricultural groups, equipment supply dealers and service providers.
 - Products, services, etc. that are directly linked to the agriculture or forestry sectors.
 - Crops/products commonly grown or produced in Maine and that is licensed or programmatically supported by DACF.

Ways to Participate

Exhibits – Rent booth space for outreach and promotions to attendees seeking agricultural services, and supplies or tools and equipment.

Conference Sessions – Rent space to convene panels, roundtables, workshops, annual meetings; share research and development updates, or offer continuing education training focused on agriculture, food systems and/or natural resources.

Main Stage – Rent time to offer a presentation to the public audience. Examples include farmer spotlights, Maine farm product demonstrations, awards.

Listening Post – Join a team of professionals offering objective advising and expertise to attendees.

I Want to Participate. What next?

1. Complete the interest form – Note: submitting the form does not guarantee that you will be awarded space.

- You cannot revise information after submitting – plan to complete in one sitting.
- Select the participation choices that interest you.
- You will receive a confirmation receipt via email – please check your spam/junk.
- Submit by August 1 for discounts!

2. Show organizers review and evaluate submissions – assess priority areas and timely submission.

3. Participants selected and announced – Everyone who submits the interest form by the deadline receives a response in the fall.

- Participation is subject to receipt of timely payment and required documents.
- Selected participants decide to accept or decline the offer to participate.
- Selected participants receive tentative schedules and space assignments.
- Participants will submit more details, (e.g., amenities and extras, promotional info.)
- All selected participants should plan to be available during the full the event (typically Tuesday through Thursday before the Dr. Martin Luther King Holiday).