

Areas included in the Emerald Ash Borer Emergency Order or Quarantine Area in Maine

(Updated March 2023)

The emerald ash borer was first detected in Maine in 2018. Regulations, including a quarantine and emergency order, are in place to prevent the uncontrolled spread of the pest. The quarantine (MSword docx) covers all of York and Cumberland Counties and parts of Oxford and Aroostook Counties. The Emergency Order covers all of Androscoggin, Kennebec, Knox, Lincoln, Sagadahoc and Waldo Counties and Parts of Aroostook, Franklin, Oxford, Penobscot Piscataquis and Somerset Counties. These areas are detailed below by county. Requirements for handling ash tree material from the emergency order area parallel those of the quarantine areas.
