This is a map of the 25 Square Mile Drainage Point for Dayton, with various standards and regulations applied. The map includes different zones and areas designated for wetlands, buffers, and drainage points. The map notes that the information is for planning purposes only and that actual ground conditions and water body locations determine where and how MFS timber harvesting rules apply. The map is provided by the Department of Agriculture, Conservation and Forestry, and is intended for forest policy and management purposes. The map shows various roads, hydrology features, and wetlands, with specific rules and guidelines for each area. The map is dated December 2021, and the adoption date is noted as 8/13/2007.
