MAINE DEPARTMENT OF TRANSPORTATION

GUIDELINES

SNOWMOBILE OR RECREATIONAL TRAIL CROSSING SIGNS

Snowmobile or “Recreational Trail Crossing” signs may be erected on State and State Aid Highways provided the following requirements are met:

1. Requests:

Request for signs must be made to the Department of Agriculture Conservation & Forestry through the Bureau of Parks and Lands. The Bureau of Parks and Lands will review all requests and then forward them to the Traffic Engineering Section of the Maine Department of transportation with comments and recommendations for their consideration. The Bureau of Parks and Lands and/or municipal officials shall assure the Department of Transportation that an established trail exists and that the snowmobile or recreational trail crossing is not one that is casually used. It is assumed that the officers of a recognized organization or municipal officers of the municipality in which the signs are to be erected will originate the requests.

2. Eligible Locations:

Snowmobile or “Recreational Trail Crossing” (summer/year-round trails) signs shall not be placed indiscriminately on State or State Aid highways and are subject to the approval of the Department of Transportation. It is the Department of Transportation’s belief that crossing sites should not be permitted where it is necessary to depend upon a sign for safety. The traveling public’s reaction to these signs is not sufficiently positive to permit the safety of an individual’s life to depend upon them. Crossing locations should be selected with sufficient sight distance.

The Department’s Traffic Engineering Section, in its review of the requested locations, will suggest the relocation of any sites with restricted sight distance if possible without causing excessive travel distance. It is preferable to have the crossing relocated to a location with adequate sight distance, rather than to jeopardize the lives of the traveling public or the trail users.

In no case shall snowmobiles or recreational trail users cross controlled access lines on highways unless permitted to do so by the Commissioner of Transportation. The Commissioner of Transportation may, following a public hearing, prohibit crossing of individual bridges, culverts, overpasses, and underpasses if the Commissioner determines crossings are hazardous.

3. Installation of Signs:

These signs are placed on State and State Aid highways by the Department of Transportation only after a review of the locations by the Traffic Engineering Section indicates the need for such a sign and approval in writing has been given to the Bureau of Parks and Lands.

4. Local Responsibilities:

a. The town or recognized organizations shall agree to remove snowmobile signs from the highway during the months when there are no snowmobiling activities and store these signs for re-erection. Failure to comply with any of these provisions shall be sufficient reason for the Maine Department of Transportation to remove the "Snowmobile Crossing" signs. Prior to the removal of any signs by the Department of Transportation the Bureau of Parks and Lands will be notified and given sufficient time to take appropriate steps.

b. The town or recognized snowmobile or trail organization officials shall review the locations of these signs each year and eliminate any that are no longer needed. The Department of Transportation shall be notified of any signs eliminated in order that records may be kept updated.

c. The cost of these signs shall be borne by either the town or recognized snowmobiling or trail organization. The Maine Department of Transportation will make the initial installation of the approved signs and the requesting officials will be billed for the sign and installation charges.
