PART III: SUPPLEMENTAL INFORMATION

The Department of Marine Resources (DMR), Bureau of Public Health is tasked with monitoring the bivalve shellfish resources of the state of Maine for biotoxin threats. This monitoring program is mandated by the National Shellfish Sanitation Program Model Ordinance, compliance with which allows Maine shellfish to be exported out of the state. Testing must be done on all species commercially harvested. Maine allows an offshore mahogany quahog fishery provided biotoxin testing shows toxin levels are below quarantine limits and thus safe for human consumption. DMR requires access to a commercial fishing vessel to harvest mahogany quahog samples at specified locations and times for biotoxin testing.

2. Provide a brief justification for the selected vendor to supplement the response in Part II.

The harvest of mahogany quahogs occurs offshore at water depths of 200-300 feet utilizing specialized fishing equipment. The Department does not have a boat, fishing gear or personnel to collect mahogany quahog samples independently. The vessel the Angela Leigh is equipped to harvest mahogany quahogs. They have experienced captains and crews to run the vessel and harvest gear as well as knowledge of the fishing grounds. There are only four companies who participate in this fishery and none of the other companies is willing to contract for the biotoxin testing service.

3. Explain how the negotiated costs or rates are fair and reasonable; or how the funding was allocated to grantee.

The fishing vessel The Angela Leigh has been the only vendor willing to provide the boat sampling services to the DMR. Their per trip price of $1,600 which accounts for a 12-14 hour sampling day covering a large area off Jonesport Maine, conducting 12-14 tows to collect the samples and transit to and from their home port.

4. Describe the plan for future competition for the goods or services.

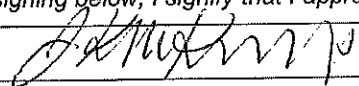

Despite several RFPs in the past, this is the only vendor willing to provide sampling services to DMR. DMR is pursuing a new testing protocol that will incorporate more shoreside lot sampling thereby reducing the cost and reliance on boat sampling in the future.
