From Maine Dept. of Labor's Annual Workforce Report for 2021 (pub. Nov. 2022):

- The rising share of retired population is the primary factor in lower participation in the state
- A higher share of retirement age population is the reason total labor force participation is lower in Maine than the nation

Wages, Income & Inflation

Moving Four Quarter Average Wage Per Job

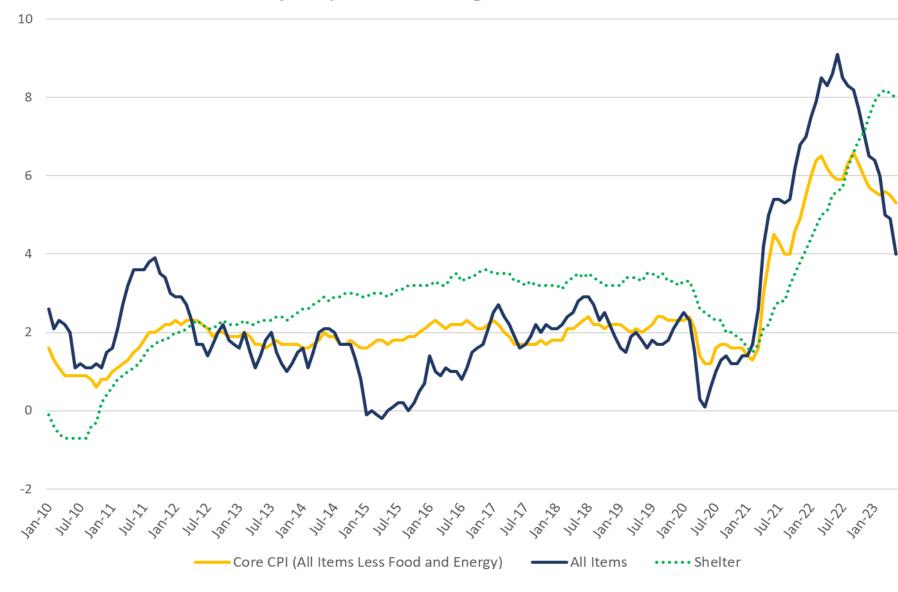

Wages have increased sharply over the past two-plus years, but higher inflation has flattened out recent gains

Percent Change in Real Personal Income (2022 $), Maine 2012-2022 and forecast to 2027

Year-over-year percent change in Consumer Price Index

Outlook

Consumer sentiment has been trending up since its all-time-low in June 2022, but has been volatile in recent months.

There were significant declines in short- and long-term economic outlook resulting from the debt ceiling debate.

Inflation and labor quality remain top issues facing small businesses.

Consumer Sentiment and Small Business Optimism Indexes

One key assumption from April 2023 Consensus Economic Forecasting Commission report (emphasis added):

There is an unequal distribution of supply and demand in the labor market. Demand for labor is high, supply is low, and unemployment rates are near historic lows in Maine and nationwide.

Workers are experiencing higher wage growth, particularly for lower wage jobs. Some demographic trends, including a growing share of the population reaching retirement age, will continue to constrain labor supply.

However, the Commission is optimistic that Maine will continue to see higher in-migration of working-age-people in the coming years that will be more than sufficient to offset retirements in the forecast period.

Things to keep in mind:

- Housing costs have increased sharply as demand far outstripped supply and then interest rate hikes made mortgages more expensive – this limits availability for ongoing migration and workforce expansion
- Inflation has started slowing, but not quickly the Federal Reserve has paused for now, but likely will continue to raise interest rates in response
- Will we see continued migration into Maine? Telework, housing, and dependent care are three key determinants
- Threat of recession is still out there as uncertainty remains elevated
- Maine has a robust Budget Stabilization Fund (around $900 million) and spending from Maine Jobs and Recovery Plan is ongoing, which will help Maine weather a potential slowdown

Maine's outlook upgraded from 'stable' to 'positive' in recent credit rating

Moody's attributed its upgrade of Maine to 'positive' because of Maine's "continued GDP growth at or above the national rate" and Maine's growing population and employment rates.
