Registration is now open for the virtual Maine Tax Symposium on Sept. 23

Designed specifically for taxpayers, accountants, attorneys, and enrolled agents, the event will feature presentations on recent changes to Maine's tax statute, including more than 25 updates within Maine's income tax code

Augusta, MAINE – Maine Revenue Services has opened registration for the 2021 Maine Tax Symposium, a virtual, day-long event slated for Thursday, Sept. 23 and designed to arm taxpayers, accountants, and tax preparers, among others, with an overview of the tax law changes made during the most recent Legislative sessions, including an overview of the more than 25 newly enacted income tax law changes.

“The impacts of COVID-19, tax code changes at the federal level, stimulus payments, and refinements in existing law have brought a multitude of changes to our state tax code over the last year,” said Jerome Gerard, Executive Director of Maine Revenue Services. “The 2021 Tax Symposium will provide accountants, tax preparers, taxpayers, attorneys, and other interested parties with the latest updates on Maine’s tax statutes and related considerations.”

The 2021 Maine Tax Symposium will feature accountants, counsel, and experts from Maine Revenue Services, the Maine Office of Marijuana Policy, and the Office of the Attorney General, who will make presentations about the impact of COVID-19 on Maine tax law, the state’s current tax law, changes to sales tax and special taxes, and on marijuana excise tax. Additionally, presentations will cover tax policy, property tax updates, and a law-by-law review of the more than 25 recent changes to Maine’s income tax code. The complete agenda is available here.

Registration is just $10 and available here. The Sept. 23 event will run from 8:00 am to 5:00 pm and will be conducted via ZOOM. Both CPE and CLE continuing education credits are available. For more information, visit Maine Revenue Services’ website.
