

SECTION 22: Odors

The aquaculture facility will not create significant odors either during the construction phase or after completion. Materials that are potential sources of odors, such as feed supply and stored treated sludge will be centrally located at the facility and well away from adjoining properties. Atmospheric tanks containing potential sources of odor will be equipped with vents with carbon canisters.