There is perhaps no better example of industrial disregard for the ill effects of pollutants on the environment than the continued sale of tobacco products to the citizens of our nation. The short term fiscal benefits of the sale of said product far outweighs the sickness and of our citizens. Our environment are the lungs of our planet. It's time to stop profit by poison. We need clean transportation. Like a patient told by a doctor you puffed your way to cancer our planets anger is obvious up and down the coast of Maine. An angry planet is one thing. A terminally ill planet leaves our children with nothing.
