Good Day,

As a Maine Citizen I believe an all-electric future will happen. But many believe this will happen overnight and seem to resist this change. This change will not happen overnight as this is a transition not a light switch. Battery electric vehicles are far superior because we are not burning the fuel. Burning gasoline to propel a vehicle in the 21st century just doesn't seem to make sense any more. Battery technology is redefining itself every day. The infrastructure is here in Maine and growing as well.

Plus we need more choice for consumers. That is not a bad thing.

Please support the transition to EVs.

Thank you
