I am writing to complain that this board would even consider implementing the California advanced clean cars 2 regulations in this state.

Its a waste of everyone's time because car companies will voluntarily choose to follow the California program because of how many cars they sell in California.

The part that I find most upsetting is that anyone listens to the vocal minority who clearly lack an understanding of economics. Green politics has become a religion complete with a redemption narrative.

The cost of a replacement vehicle is already higher than how much I paid for my house 15 years ago.

Thank you
