Why would we in most of Maine want to cause harm to ourselves?

First off, where can we get these reliability charges?

Why would anyone want to pay more for less?

What does it take? 5 min to refill a gas tank of a car or truck.

For the same amount in dollars you can fill your car or truck in a few hours.

That is a really dumb trade-off.

What is the range between refills on an electric truck? I drive a Ford F-150.

I usually am towing or carrying a large load in my truck and get, with hard use, around 20 MPG and range over 300 miles per tank full.

I do not have an electric truck to compare with but from what I have read is that if I tried that with an electric I would be stuck somewhere short of that distance with a totally discharged battery.

Bottom line is why would our state Representatives and Senators think anyone that actually drives would want this to be mandated by our state government that we must only use electric cars and trucks in lieu of gas or diesel cars and trucks?
