Dear Air Quality Bureau Cayting,

Stop the nonsense! Truck availability continues to be problematic and is a major consideration before investing in expensive charging and utility upgrades. Many commercial truck uses, such as truck-mounted cranes, dump bodies, and snow plows, will require an additional power source. Fire safety policies, education, and training should precede policy implementation. Maine's grid cannot sustain Medium and Heavy-Duty (M&HD) vehicle electrification without significant investment. Maine's charging infrastructure is not even close to being ready for Zero Emission Vehicles (ZEV's.)

Sincerely,

Eric Bowdoin
