Dear Air Quality Bureau Cayting,

As a business that relies on trucks to deliver our goods to retailers across the state, I can not agree with mandating a technology that is un tested and not currently available to consumers. We have worked closely with our diesel truck suppliers to implement and test a ZEV truck in Northern, Maine and not a single one of them has been able to help us. Adopting California's ruling in a northeast state, with heavy winter snow and much colder temperatures is inappropriate without further conversations with companies who actually handle the transportation and delivery of goods every day.

Sincerely,

Jasper Walsh
