

Mobility Management Peer Learning Network

Do you identify the transportation needs and improve overall mobility for the general public with special emphasis on individuals with disabilities, seniors, and low-income adults?

Do you advocate for people who experience transportation barriers?

Do you promote and enhance regional mobility, develop local partnerships, and/or educate the public on transportation options?

If you said yes to any of these questions then you are working in mobility management!

What is Mobility Management?

Mobility management is an approach to designing and delivering transportation services that starts and ends with the customer. It begins with a community vision in which the entire transportation network – public transit, private operators, cycling and walking, volunteer drivers, and others – works together with customers, planners, and stakeholders to deliver transportation options that best meet the community's needs.

What is the Mobility Management Peer Learning Network?

The Mobility Management Peer Learning Network is an opportunity for transportation stakeholders and those interested in transportation to come together every other month to learn about mobility management from their peers. Each learning session will cover either a different aspect of mobility management or a different way mobility management is applied in Maine. Each learning session will devote time to presentations by colleagues, followed by ample time for questions and answers.

Peer Learning Network webinars will be held on the third Tuesday of every other month from 12pm-1pm via Zoom starting June 18th. The Mobility Management Peer Learning Network will also enable stakeholders to connect outside of the learning sessions through Slack. If you are interested in participating, please contact Perian Carpenter at pcarpenter@shuttlebus-zoom.com.

We will cover these topics:

- Mobility Management Overview and National Resources
- Getting Started as a Mobility Manager
- Healthcare Transportation: Solving Transportation Barriers for Cancer Survivors
- Social Transportation Needs: Shopping Shuttles
- Transportation and Aging Communities
- Volunteer Driver Programs
- And more!

Who Should Participate?

Anyone involved in a transportation-related organization or who has an interest in transportation is welcome to participate in the Learning Network. While we highly encourage you to attend each learning session, it is not mandatory. All learning sessions are free to participants.

The Mobility Management Peer Learning Network is part of the Moving Maine initiative, a new effort devoted to improving mobility for all Mainers, especially people who experience transportation challenges.
