

We encourage schools/districts across the State of Maine to get involved with RREV – Rethinking Responsive Education Ventures!

RREV is all about innovation and thinking boldly about how best to meet the learning needs of Maine’s students. We’ve learned a great deal as we’ve navigated various situations brought about by the pandemic. One of which is that we must expand our concept of when, where, and how learning happens.

If your school/district is interested in getting involved with RREV, here are a few documents to help you understand our process and expectations.
