“MLR Standards comment

Teaching middle school social studies, I am satisfied with the Maine Learning Results as they stand now. They are general enough that they include all aspects of social studies. I appreciate the flexibility in the standards and being able to help students understand the pillars of social studies.

My coworkers and I also appreciate that there are multiple opportunities for students to meet the standard. And there are multiple opportunities for students to meet the standards over the course of multiple years due to the repetitiveness.
