We distribute a teacher survey in the Spring and ask teachers to reflect on the school year, and the activities allowed to students throughout the school year. Teachers are asked what they felt worked and what did not, and their suggestions for wishes and improvements for the following school year.

We distribute a parent Survey in the Spring, as well as hold individual ILP meetings with parents and students throughout the year. From the surveys and parent feedback, we are able to ask what parents feel is working, and what is not.

From the information learned from these surveys, we determined the program to be effective as it stands.

(c.) Include how program effectiveness was determined.

By meeting with parents, teachers, and students, we are able to reflect on the effectiveness of the program, and make adjustments as necessary.

We discuss within these meetings what additional programming may be necessary, and whether or not we all feel student needs are being met. Principals are also involved in these meetings, and participate in the decisions that are made there.
