2020 GENERAL INFORMATION - TRADITIONALLY FINANCED CANDIDATES

Introduction

Dear Candidate:

Thank you for registering as a legislative candidate in Maine's 2020 elections. This Quick Guide introduces you to the key elements of running as a traditionally financed candidate. You will find more detailed information in the 2020 Guidebook for Traditionally Financed Candidates. Neither this Quick Guide nor the Candidate Guidebook, however, is a substitute for the Commission's statutes and rules. Please do not hesitate to email or call your Candidate Registrar if you have any questions. We are here to help in any way we can.

- Ethics Commission Staff

Filing Financial Reports

Candidates must file financial reports according to the schedule below. If reports are late, the Commission assesses late-filing penalties automatically, and penalties increase every day. Therefore, it is critical that candidates file the report by 11:59 p.m. on each deadline. Please get an early start. The Commission staff is available to help until 5:00 p.m. on each filing deadline.

Filing Schedule

Report	Due Date	Period Begin Date	Period End Date

42-Day Post-General Report	December 15, 2020	October 21, 2020	December 8, 2020

24-Hour Reporting Periods for Contested Candidates*

May 27 - June 8, 2020 (before the Primary Election)

October 21 - November 2, 2020 (before the General Election)

^{*} In the 13 days prior to an election in which a candidate is contested, 24-Hour Reports must be filed if the candidate accepts a single contribution or makes a single expenditure of $1,000 or more. This includes loans, debts, and debt payments. Within one day of the transaction that triggers a 24-Hour Report, campaigns must log in to the eFiling website, add the transaction, and then file the automatically created 24-Hour Report.

2020 CONTRIBUTION LIMITS | LOANS | IN-KIND CONTRIBUTIONS

Contribution Limits

The contribution limit for legislative candidates is $400 per election. The primary and general elections are considered separate elections. Therefore, if a candidate is in both a primary and general election, regardless of whether they are contested, they are allowed to accept $800 total from a single source—$400 for the primary, and $400 for the general. Primary contributions can not be accepted after June 9, 2020. A candidate may accept contributions for the general election before the primary, but must keep the funds for each election separate. Funds raised for the general election may not be spent until after the primary.

Contribution limits do not apply to a candidate or the candidate's spouse/domestic partner, and they are allowed to donate unlimited funds to the campaign.

Candidates who are not enrolled in one of the three political parties in Maine - the Maine Democratic Party, the Maine Green-Independent Party, or the Maine Republican Party - are only running in the general election. Unenrolled candidates may only accept up to $400 from a single contributor.

All types of contributions count towards the contribution limit. For instance, a candidate cannot accept a $300 cash contribution as well as an in-kind contribution with a value of $150 from the same contributor for the same election.

Loans

Loans are contributions to a campaign the candidate intends to pay back. Loans from the candidate, the candidate's spouse/domestic partner, or from a financial institution in Maine are not subject to the contribution limit, but loans from any other source can be no greater than $400 per election.

In-Kind Contributions

In-kind contributions are donations to a campaign of goods, materials, or services that have a monetary value. For instance, if a supporter purchases office supplies for the campaign's headquarters and is not reimbursed by the campaign, the campaign has accepted an in-kind contribution in the amount of what the supplies cost. There is no limit on the amount of in-kind contributions the candidate and their spouse/domestic partner can give to the campaign, but from other sources the limit is $400 per election.

There are many ways campaigns can receive in-kind contributions. There are also exemptions for certain goods and services, so they do not count as in-kind contributions. Candidates should refer to the 2020 Candidate Guidebook for more information.

SURPLUS FUNDS & POST-ELECTION RESPONSIBILITIES

For many traditionally financed candidates, the general election does not mark the end of campaign finance reporting responsibilities. All candidates must file a post-general report in December, and for candidates with surplus funds there are semiannual reports that must be filed.

42-Day Post-General Report

All candidates must file a 42-Day Post-General Report, due by December 15, 2020. This report will cover the period of October 21 - December 8, 2020. While the report is due after the election, the date range covered by the report is usually one of the busier periods for financial activity. The report is also due during the holiday season, so it is important that candidates remember to file the report on time, and make sure it is an accurate and complete report.

Campaigns are welcome to file the 42-Day Post-General Report early, if the campaign has entered all contributions and expenditures for the period, and has paid all outstanding obligations and loans. If the campaign's cash, debt, and loan balances are all $100 or less, the 42-Day Post-General Report will be the campaign's last report.

Surplus Funds & Semiannual Reports

If an ending cash, loan, or debt balance is greater than $100 on a campaign's 42-Day Post-General Report, the campaign is considered to still be financially active, and must continue to file periodic reports. Semiannual Reports must be filed on January 15th and July 15th of each year until the campaign has disposed of the surplus funds, or repaid or forgiven all debts and loans. Campaigns have four years from the election to dispose of surplus funds and end all financial activity.

Surplus funds can be disposed of in multiple ways, the following being the most common:

- Transferring the funds to a subsequent election
- Returning the funds to contributors
- Making a donation to a local, county, or state political party
- Making a donation to a registered non-profit
- Paying for any expense incurred in the proper performance of the office to which the candidate was elected

Campaigns may not donate surplus funds to a PAC. Please consult the 2020 Candidate's Guidebook for other options for disposing of surplus funds, or contact your Candidate Registrar.

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

Q: When do I have to register as a candidate?

A: Candidates must appoint a treasurer before raising or spending any money, and register with the Commission within ten days of that appointment. Candidates may appoint themselves as treasurers.

Q: Do I have to have a separate bank account for my campaign?

A: Yes. Candidates must open and use a separate bank or credit union account to deposit all contributions and make campaign expenditures. If a candidate intends to collect general election contributions before the primary election, the candidate will need another account to deposit general election contributions into. For example, the candidate could open a checking account, as well as a separate savings account for general election contributions. After the primary election, the funds in the savings account can be transferred to the checking account to be used for the general election.

Q: What is the contribution limit for 2020?

A: The contribution limit for legislative candidates is $400 per election. The primary and general elections are separate elections. A candidate who is in both elections can accept $800 from a single contributor. Candidates who are not enrolled in a political party may only accept up to $400 per contributor.

Q: Can a contributor write a single check for $800 for both elections?

A: Yes, prior to the primary, a contributor can write a single check of up to $800 (or $1,600 if both spouses/domestic partners contribute the maximum for both elections). The candidate must deposit the primary and general election contributions into separate accounts.

Q: Am I required to report contributors' occupation and employment information?

A: If a contributor has donated more than $50 to your campaign, you must report the contributor's full name and address. You are also required to report the contributor's occupation and employment information. Campaigns must use "reasonable efforts" to obtain the employment information of their contributors. For example, if the campaign mails out contribution cards or collects contributions online, there must be a way for contributors to provide their employers and occupations.

Q: I am using an online fundraising service to solicit and accept contributions. Do I report contributions received online differently? How do I report the fees that are applied to the contributions?

A: Contributions received online should be reported no differently than contributions received by check or cash. The full amount of the contribution is reported with the contributor's name and information. If there is a processing fee for online contributions, the fee should be reported as an expenditure. For example, if a contributor donates $100, but there is a $5 fee, the contribution should be reported as $100, and there should also be an expenditure for $5.

Campaigns may report contribution fees in one lump expenditure per report. This is the only type of expenditure using a lump sum is allowable for.

Q: I have received contributions from corporations/organizations owned by the same person or group of people. Do these count as coming from the same source, and do I have to return any of the contributions?

A: In some circumstances, the Election Law considers businesses, for-profit and non-profit corporations, and other organizations to be a single contributor if they have common owners or officers. A sole proprietorship and its owner are considered to be a single entity. Two or more entities are considered a single contributor if they share the majority of the members of their boards of directors; share two or more officers; are owned or controlled by the same majority shareholder(s); are in a parent-subsidiary relationship; or are LLCs owned by the same member or member majority. If the entities are considered to be a single contributor, the combined total of their contributions may not exceed $400 per election. Contributions in excess of the limit should be returned immediately.

Q: What kind of disclosure statement am I required to put on my campaign materials?

A: Almost all campaign communications are required to have a conspicuous disclosure statement which states who paid for and authorized the communication. The simplest version of an acceptable disclosure statement is: "Paid For And Authorized By The Candidate." Communications that do not require a disclosure statement are items that are too small to reasonably fit a statement, or lawn signs that are hand-painted. The Department of Transportation has separate requirements for what information is required to be on signs placed in public right-of-ways. To learn more about disclosure statements, please consult your Candidate Registrar or the 2020 Candidate's Guidebook.

COLLECTING & REPORTING CONTRIBUTIONS

As a candidate begins to fundraise, it is important to have procedures in place to collect and maintain the information about contributors that must be reported in campaign finance reports, and to avoid accepting an over-the-limit contribution (for more information on contribution limits, see "2020 Contribution Limits | Loans | In-Kind Contributions").

- Complete name and address for each contributor. The campaign is required to obtain and record this information as well as the date and amount for each contribution greater than $10.
- Occupation and employer. This information must be requested from every individual contributor who has given the campaign more than $50. The candidate is required to make a "reasonable effort" to obtain a contributor's employment information.
- Joint contributions from spouses/domestic partners. Contributions can only be reported in the name of an individual, not a couple. The campaign must determine who the contributor is and, if the contribution is from both spouses/domestic partners, how it should be allocated between them.
- Contributions from corporations and LLCs. Some corporations and LLCs that are owned and controlled by the same group of people may be considered to be a single entity for the purpose of contribution limits. For more information about corporate contributions, see "Frequently Asked Questions," or contact a Candidate Registrar.

COLLECTING

REPORTING

- The contributor's full name and address, and occupation and employer must be reported for each contributor who gave more than $50, in aggregate, in a reporting period.
- Campaigns may report all contributions of $50 or less during a reporting period in one lump sum.
- Each contribution must be attributed to either the primary or general election.
- For contributions received online, the campaign should use the date the funds were transferred to the candidate as the contribution date.

MAKING & REPORTING EXPENDITURES

All purchases of goods and services with campaign funds should be for a campaign-related purpose. Campaigns are required to report every expenditure they make, so it is important that candidates keep complete and accurate records to make reporting smooth and simple.

- If a candidate purchases goods and services with personal funds and does not get reimbursed by the campaign, those purchases are not expenditures for reporting purposes, but in-kind contributions. Please contact a Candidate Registrar for more information on how in-kind contributions work and should be reported.
- All expenditures should be made out of the campaign bank account by check or debit card. Doing so will help with record-keeping and reporting requirements.
- All campaign literature (other than some small and handmade items) must have a proper disclosure statement on it—the most simple version of a disclosure statement is: "Authorized and Paid For by the Candidate."
- If a campaign has received goods or services and has not paid for them by the end of the reporting period, the campaign has incurred an unpaid debt which must be reported. Please contact a Candidate Registrar on how debts should be reported and managed.

- Every expenditure and debt, regardless of amount, must be itemized in campaign finance reports. The only exception is for fees for contributions donated online; those may be aggregated into one expenditure per reporting period.
- Campaigns are required to report the amount and date of the expenditure, the full payee name and address, choose an appropriate expenditure type, and include a brief description of what was purchased campaigns will be asked to amend their reports if any of this information is missing, inaccurate, or incomplete.
- When choosing an expenditure type, filers should do their best to make sure they are selecting an appropriate option. Incorrect expenditure types are the most common reason campaigns need to amend reports.
- When reporting a reimbursement, the vendor that the goods or services were purchased from should be reported as the payee, not the person who was reimbursed, and the date should be the date of the original purchase, not the date the reimbursement was made. In the description area, the campaign should include the information of who was reimbursed and on what date
- When reporting a mileage reimbursement expenditure, the payee should be the individual who is receiving the reimbursement; the campaign should include in the description the purpose for the travel.
- In the 13 days before an election, most expenditures of $1,000 or more have to be reported in a special 24-Hour Report. Please refer to the 2020 Candidate's Guidebook or contact your Candidate Registrar for more information about filing 24-Hour Reports.

RECORD-KEEPING & BANK ACCOUNT INFORMATION

BANK ACCOUNT

Candidates are required to have a separate bank account for their campaign funds. If a candidate raises general election contributions before the primary, the candidate must keep primary and general election contributions in separate accounts until after the primary election.

The account should be a checking account. Candidates should have a way to pay for purchases directly from the account, such as checks and/or a debit card.

Candidates may not commingle personal and campaign funds in the same account.

Candidates should request to receive paper or electronic monthly statements from their bank to help with record-keeping and reporting requirements.

RECORD KEEPING

Candidates are required to keep all of their campaign records for two years after the election.

For each expenditure of over $50, campaigns must obtain and keep a receipt or invoice that states the goods and services purchased.

For contributions of $50 or less, the campaign must keep a record of the contributor's name and address, and date and amount of the contribution. For contributions over $50, the campaign must also keep record of the contributor's occupation and employer.

Expenditures made by consultants on the candidate's behalf have different record-keeping requirements. Please see the 2020 Candidate Guidebook or contact a Candidate Registrar for more information.
