Helpful Information about Requirement to Provide Notice to a Major Contributor

Who is a Major Contributor – A person such as a business, organization, association, but not an individual, political action committee, or ballot question committee, that gives more than $100,000 in the aggregate to a BQC/Recipient Committee for the purpose of initiating or influencing a people's veto or citizen initiative.

Timing of Notice – The Recipient Committee must notify the Major Contributor within 5 days of receiving contributions from the Major Contributor exceeding $100,000 (the "Notice and Reporting threshold"). If the Notice and Reporting threshold is met during the last 13 days before an election, then the Recipient Committee must provide this Notice to the Major Contributor within 24 hours.

One Notice/One Report – The Major Contributor notice and related reporting requirements are triggered once a Recipient Committee receives from a Major Contributor in excess of $100,000 for the purpose of initiating or influencing a specific ballot question. After the notice and reporting requirements are met, even if the same Major Contributor gives to the same Recipient Committee another $100,001 related to the same ballot question, no second notice to that Major Contributor and no additional report from that Major Contributor is required.

Serving the Notice – The Recipient Committee may send this Notice to the Major Contributor by mail, email, or fax. The Recipient Committee must provide a copy of this Notice, which may be e-mailed, to the Maine Ethics Commission.

Penalties – If the Recipient Committee fails to provide this Notice to the Major Contributor or a copy of this Notice to the Maine Ethics Commission as required by applicable law, the Recipient Committee may be liable for a penalty of 10% of the total contributions from the Major Contributor or $50,000, whichever is less.
