LANDOWNER RELATIONS PROGRAM FOCUS AND MISSION

WOW, another year has gone by and 2020 has been quite a year for the Landowner Relations Program. January came with the usual snowmobile / landowner issues that are usually resolved or rerouted. Landowner specific details were organized and things were running smoothly. The calendar / schedule was filling with speaking engagements and meetings. The ATV Task Force and Legislative process promised new hope to help Maine’s booming ATV industry and protection for the landowners. The program was finally properly funded by the generosity of the Legislature and Governor. This was possible only by the support received by outside interest groups, the people of the State and the support of the Department of Inland Fisheries and Wildlife. The success of the program was having a positive impact.

Then COVID hit. We saw a tremendous increase in private land use by recreationalist like hikers, bikers, horseback riders and all users in between. This resulted in an unforeseen burden on landowners and the LOR Program, the likes of which we had not experienced in the past. We were dealing with user groups that were not familiar with the expectations of Maine’s landowners. Trail hiking maps / apps were directing people to places that were not open to the public. Land trust and public lands were being overburdened, resulting in closures. The public still wanted to be outside; so, they sought alternate areas to recreate and conflict resulted. The Landowner Relations Program and IF&W I/E Department stepped up with a marketing campaign to address such issues and educate the general public. We will continue to do so; because it is obvious people have discovered Maine’s outdoors and what it has to offer.

The important role Maine’s landowners play in regard to recreational opportunities and the State of Maine’s economy is unprecedented and shall not be taken for granted. Both Rick and I are proud to represent the Department of IF&W with this endeavor. Most importantly we are honored to be the voice for Maine’s landowners. Thank you for trusting us to deliver the message which is a benefit to all that recreate in Maine’s outdoors.
Landowner Specialist Rick LaFlamme and David Chabot field many calls from the public, department biologists, warden staff, DACF staff, ATV / Snowmobile clubs and private landowners. The calls are handled or vetted to the appropriate personnel or advice is given to remedy a problem. There are times where the complaint is handled in house and special attention is given to the complainant, which is usually a landowner. The following bullet points are just a few examples of work done by Specialists LaFlamme and Chabot.

STABLE FUNDING ESTABLISHED FOR THE FUTURE OF THE PROGRAM

The use and access to private lands is unique to the Northeast and is of extreme importance to the State of Maine. The open and free access has been a longstanding tradition. It has been an accepted and welcomed practice amongst most landowners with the beneficiaries being land users. The historical practice of public access to private lands has been acknowledged by the State.

The initial creation of the Landowner Relations Program was a direct result of the Legislature understanding the importance of the free access given graciously by Maine’s private landowners and how it relates to Maine’s heritage and economy. In 2018, the Department of IF&W – Warden Service with support of the Landowner Sportsman Relations Advisory Board added another Landowner Specialist position to the program. In 2019, the Legislature approved an additional $150,000 of General Fund to go towards the Landowner Relations Program. This additional funding along with Outdoor Partners contributions and the Support Wildlife motor vehicle registration plate; will ensure the mission of the program will continue well into the future and provide benefits to the landowners and land users of the State of Maine.

KEEP MAINE CLEAN PROGRAM
The Keep Maine Program was established and placed within the Landowner Relations Program of Inland Fisheries and Wildlife. The sole purpose is to provide relief and assistance to Maine’s landowners with illegal dumping (littering) issues. These illegal acts are a main reason for the POSTING of private property.

With the assistance and partnerships of the Maine Forest Service, BDS Tire and Waste Management, the annual Landowner Appreciation Day which occurred on September 13th was a success even during a pandemic. This litter is no longer on Maine’s landscape thanks to the program and the volunteers.

The Keep Maine Clean Program is essential for Landowner Relations and shall continue as an integral part of the program. Nearly a dozen large dumpsters were filled statewide, with illegally dumped items. Not to mention the tire totals listed below, which was taken by BDS tire disposal company in Norridgewock Maine, for absolutely free!

Jonesboro & Dennysville - 300 tires
Greenville - 40 tires
East Millinocket – 50 tires
Ashland – 60 tires
Gray - 100 tires
Sidney – 50 tires
Strong – 50 tires
Bangor - 100 tires

Top four clubs received prizes for most truckloads of trash.

LANDOWNER AND SPORTSMEN RELATIONS ADVISORY BOARD

The Landowner Sportmen Relations Advisory Board {LSRAB} is an advisory board to the Commissioner of Inland Fisheries and Wildlife

- Expand education to promote respect and appreciation for landowners.
- Continue support for nuisance wildlife damage issues on private property, especially farms
- Ensure the importance of landowner relations and its program mission is delivered to the public
- Continued coordination and cooperation between government agencies and landowners
- Recognize non-traditional use is growing rapidly (hiking, biking, kayaking, over-landing with vehicles, back country snowmobile riding) especially during pandemic times

- Acknowledge public access to private property is rapidly declining, due to lack of respect and abuse by users (litter, destruction of property, etc.)

Advisory Board Members:

Don Kleiner (Maine Professional Guides Assoc) - Chair
Jessica Leahy (Univ. of Maine Orono) – Co-Chair
The Outdoor Partners program provides an opportunity for the outdoor enthusiast to donate to the Landowner relations Program. It is a $15 yearly contribution and is available through the Department of IF&W online store or at the time of license purchase. We had 1574 participants in 2020, which is a slight increase from 2019.

The list of companies below provided discounts to products, memberships or monetarily with services. These relationships have been established with outdoor retailers, trash/tire disposal companies and organized clubs & associations to promote and provide an invaluable support system for Maine’s Landowners and the Landowner Relations Program.

Accessing private land: there’s the law, and then there’s the unwritten rule.

The law
- Unlike most other states, Maine operates under an implied permission structure, meaning that if land is not posted, it is legal to use the land.
The unwritten rule - Always ask permission. Hunting, fishing, or otherwise using private land without the owner's permission is a careless move that puts everyone's future access at risk.

When venturing into the Maine woods, follow the unwritten rule.

Ways to be a good land user

Landowners who permit you to use their land for outdoor recreational activities are not only doing you a favor, they are placing their trust in you. Here are some ways you can prove their trust is not misplaced:

- Always ask for permission, whether or not there are signs on the property requesting that you do so, and regardless of who owns it (a private individual or a business). If you have identified a land area, you'd like to access but you're not sure who owns it, you should be able to find that information at the municipality's Town Hall. Then, look up the person or business's contact information, and give them a call. With a little resourcefulness and a Google search bar, you shouldn't have any problem navigating this process. When mapping out where you'd like to go, keep in mind that railroad and utility corridors are not public rights of way and still require landowner permission. Also, don't be afraid to reach out to landowners who have posted their land. You may be pleasantly surprised at how many of them will allow access to someone who has the courtesy to ask first.

- Learn what matters most to the landowner and abide by all special requests they make, including where you can or cannot drive or park a vehicle, and which specific activities are allowed. Some landowners may require permits for certain activities. If so, respect that request. Look at any such requests from the landowner's point of view, and act with their best interests in mind whenever you use the land. Some landowners dread various seasons of the year, believing the associated activities limit their use of their own property. It's your job to make sure whoever owns the land you're using never feels that way. If we as a recreational community can't respect landowners' wishes, we can only expect more private land to be closed to public use.

- Provide detailed information. If requested, give the landowner your name, address, phone number and vehicle description, and consider using pre-printed Landowner/Land user Courtesy Cards (PDF). Good, thorough communication is a great way to build mutual respect.

- Know your boundaries. Learn the geographic property boundaries of the land you have permission to use and stay within them. There is no excuse for trespassing — it's a crime enforceable by all state, county, and municipal law enforcement officers, and if convicted, you may lose any license issued by the Maine Department of Inland Fisheries and Wildlife.

- Keep it clean. Remember that you are a guest. Always leave the land as you found it, if not better. If you see trash that someone else left, pick it up.

- Keep it legal. Always obey the law, be safe and ethical, and report any land abuse that you witness. Land abuse is a very serious problem in Maine, and each year, access to private property is lost because of it. Put yourself in the landowner's shoes and help ensure that violators are prosecuted. If you see a violation occurring, contact Operation Game Thief at 1(800) ALERT-US [1(800) 253-7887].

- Say thank you. Thank the landowner for the opportunity to use their property for recreation. They'll love hearing that you enjoyed it, and that you recognize and appreciate their generosity.

- Show your support. Become an Outdoor Partner or volunteer for a Keep Maine Clean event!
