Megunticook Lake is very picturesque with the towering cliffs of Mount Megunticook rising from the east shore. The public can access the lake from improved boat ramps located off route 52 to the east and route 105 along the west shore. The lake also serves as a public water supply for near by towns.

Historically, both landlocked salmon and rainbow trout were stocked in Megunticook Lake. Marginal water quality, a lack of deep cold well oxygenated water, was the cause for salmon not providing an adequate fishery.

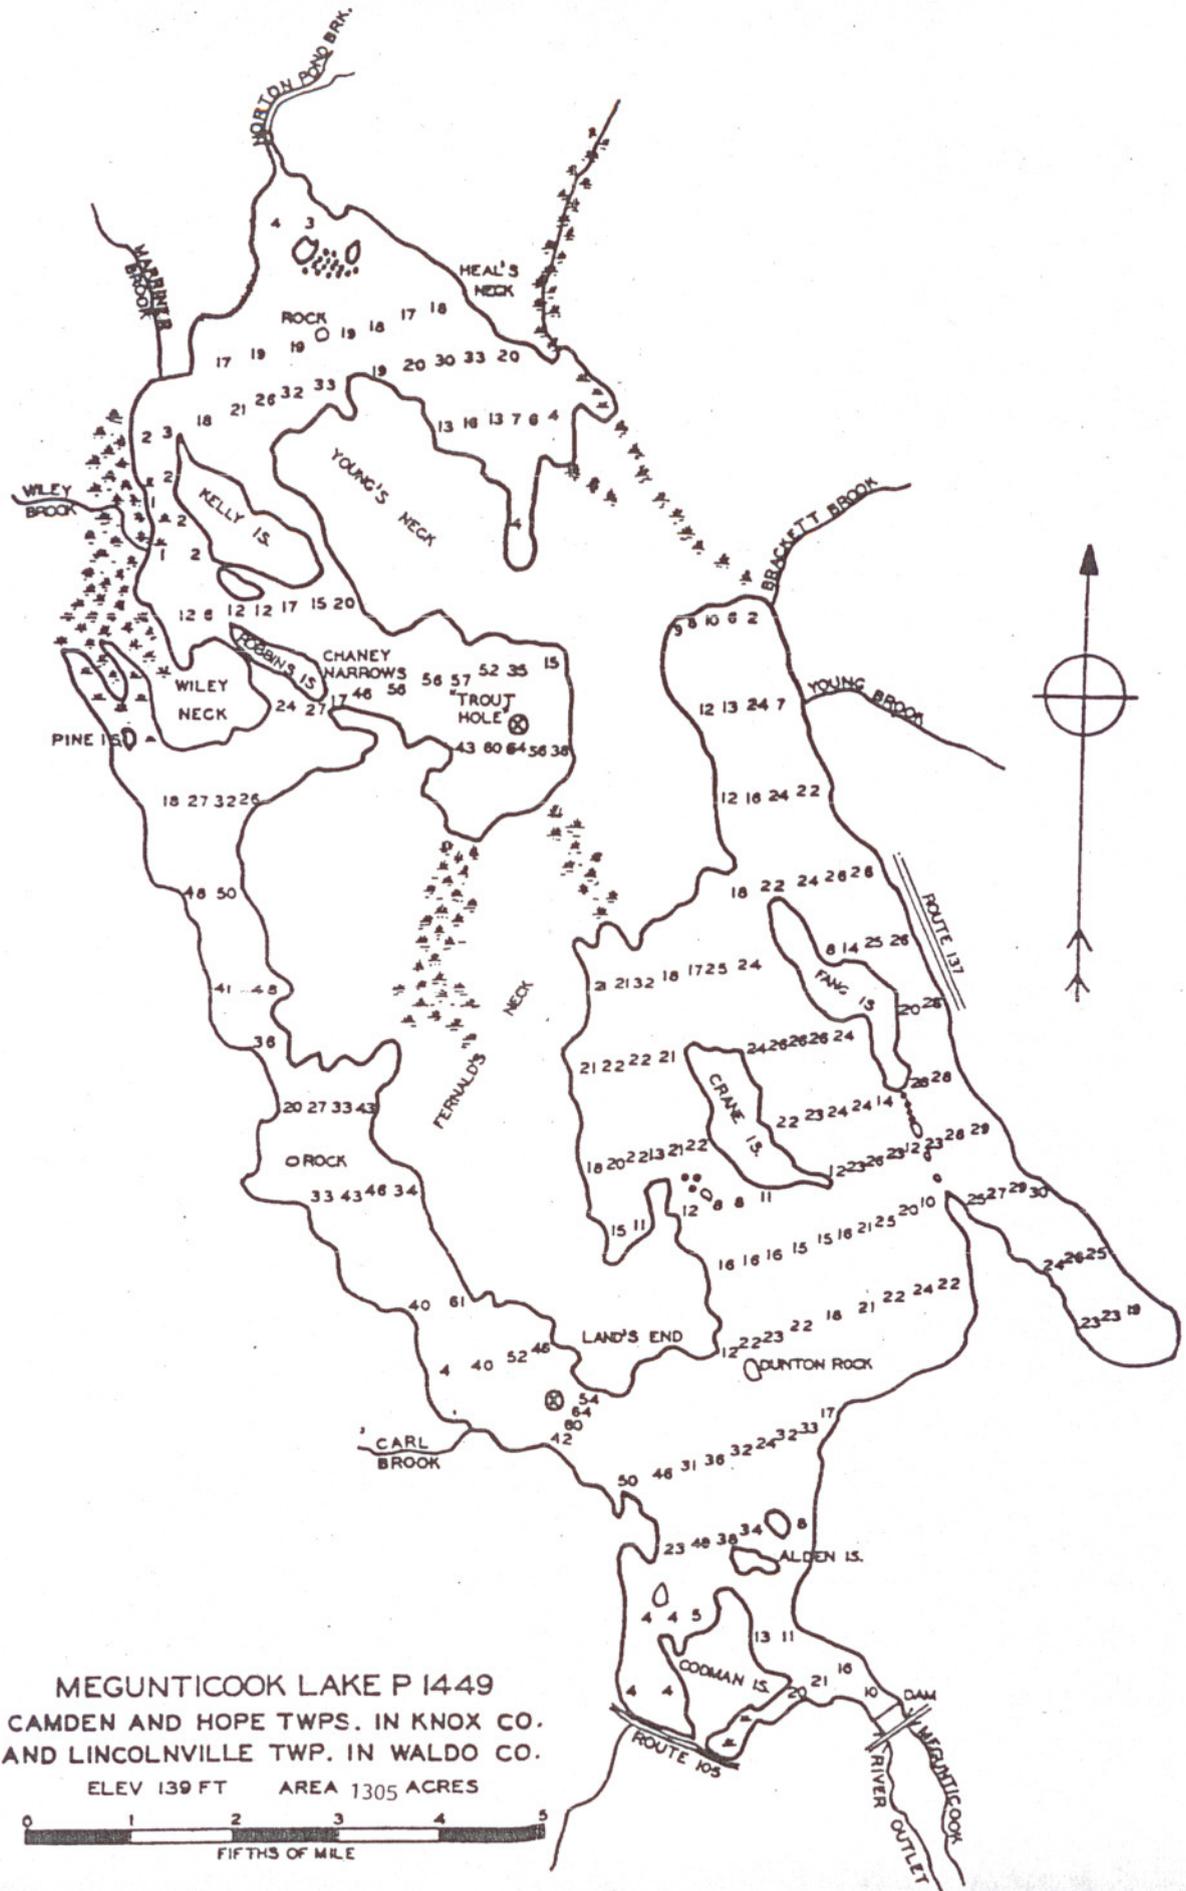

Experimentally rainbow trout were stocked but this program was terminated when the statewide rainbow trout program was abandoned. More recently a private group in conjunction with the Fisheries and Wildlife Department has once again experimentally stock Megunticook Lake with rainbow trout. This program will be evaluated to see if rainbows provide a more successful fishery than brown trout which are currently being stocked

The smallmouth and largemouth bass fishery remains very good with above average size fish, although the numbers of largemouth are low. Only a limited amount of prime juvenile bass habitat exists and during low water years this habitat can be exposed causing high year class mortality.
