Long (Martin) Pond is a long, narrow pond which lies near U.S. Route 201 in The Forks. The pond was chemically reclaimed in 1958. Since then, at least one species of minnow has become re-established. Water quality is suitable for brook trout, but because of a lack of spawning habitat, the pond is stocked annually.

A no-live-fish-as-bait regulation is in effect and reduces the chances for further introductions of competing fish species.
