Scope

The Maine Department of Labor (MDOL) is submitting this report to the Joint Standing Committee on Labor, Commerce, Research and Economic Development in accordance with the Maine Substance Abuse Testing Law, 26 M.R.S. §690. The Maine Substance Abuse Testing Law is intended to protect the privacy rights of employees, yet allow an employer to administer testing, to ensure proper testing procedures, to ensure that an employee with a substance abuse problem receives an opportunity for treatment, and to eliminate drug abuse in the workplace. The law was initially enacted in 1989 and was amended by the Legislature in 1995, 1999, 2001, 2003, 2005, 2007, 2009 and 2011.

This report pertains only to employer testing activities performed under Maine Law; it is not a comprehensive study of workplace substance abuse testing because it does not include individuals who are tested under federal testing programs, which are outside the scope of Maine's testing law. Further, it does not include non-federally regulated employee testing data from some employers who have been exempted under the most recent amendment to the Maine law.

Practice

The administration of the Maine Drug Testing Law is a collaborative effort of the following agencies:

Maine Department of Labor, Bureau of Labor Standards (BLS)

Reviews and approves substance abuse testing policies.
Collects the annual reports of substance abuse testing.
Analyzes testing data and publishes this annual report.

Department of Health and Human Services, Health and Environmental Testing Laboratory

Responsible for the licensing of laboratories that Maine employers can use for testing of controlled substances. For a list of approved testing laboratories, contact the Maine Department of Labor.

Department of Health and Human Services, Division of Licensing and Regulatory Services

Any employer with more than 20 full-time employees must have a functioning Employee Assistance Program (EAP) prior to testing their employees, as stated in 26 M.R.S. §683(1). The EAP must be certified by the Department of Health and Human Services and certification must be renewed every two years.

Any employer desiring to undertake substance abuse testing of current or prospective employees, other than those tested under federal regulations, must submit a substance abuse testing policy to the Maine Department of Labor. An employer may not commence testing until the MDOL has notified the employer that the policy has been approved and the employer has given proper notice to its employees.

Policy templates developed by the Maine Department of Labor help employers develop substance abuse policies for their workplaces and make it easier for the MDOL to review company policies. The current policy templates are available on the MDOL website:

www.maine.gov/labor/labor_laws/substance_abuse_testing.

Survey

Each employer with a drug testing policy approved by the Maine Department of Labor (see Appendix 1) is required to report its testing activities annually. This is accomplished via a mandatory survey conducted by the Department. Survey notices are presented to all employers with active policies at the beginning of each year to ensure accurate data collection of all testing done in the previous year.

Information gathered from the survey includes the number of tests by type (applicant, probable cause or random/arbitrary), the substances tested for, and the number of positive tests for each substance. Survey data are processed directly into this report.

Results by Type of Test

Table 1 provides the results of employer drug testing in 2018 based on the types of drug tests that were taken. They include:

Applicant Testing

Applicant testing is for individuals who have been offered employment with a company or placed on a roster of eligibility for employment. Testing is conducted before the individual is hired.

Employee Testing: Probable Cause

Probable cause testing is conducted where reasonable grounds exist to believe that an existing employee may be under the influence of a substance of abuse.

Employee Testing: Random/Arbitrary

Random testing is a method of selection in which all employees have an equal potential of selection by random chance. Some employers with random testing policies select from their pool of safety or performance sensitive positions, while most employers include all employees in the selection process. Arbitrary testing is based on criteria unrelated to substance abuse, such as the anniversary of hire date or client requirement.

¹ Invalid tests include those with discrepancies that could involve specimen acquisition, sample protection, chain of custody, security, or validation of testing / analytical equipment or procedures. In some cases, invalid tests can be re-taken.

² Positive test results only include results reported as positive by the testing laboratories; they do not include instances where an employer allows positive tests to be reported as negative when an individual tested positive for a specific substance and was able to validate they had a prescription or a medical marijuana registration card authorized by a healthcare professional.

Results by Industry

Table 2 shows testing results for each industry, based on the North American Industrial Classification System (NAICS) code. The Services industry conducted the most tests in 2018. The highest percentage of positive results were reported by the “Other” industry with 11.4 percent.

Year-by-Year Results

Regulation of testing for use of controlled substances has been in effect under Maine law since September 30, 1989. Since then results have been collected every year. The number of employers with approved policies has increased steadily since that time. The highest percentage of positive tests occurred in 2018, with 5.8 percent. The lowest percent positive was 2.0 percent, occurring in 1993.
