Overview

The Maine Department of Labor (MDOL) is submitting this report to the Joint Standing Committee on Labor and Housing in accordance with the Maine Substance Use Testing Law, 26 M.R.S. §690. The Maine Substance Use Testing Law was enacted in 1989 to protect the privacy rights of employees, yet allow an employer to administer testing, to ensure proper testing procedures, to ensure that an employee with a substance abuse problem receives an opportunity for treatment, and to eliminate drug use in the workplace.

This report pertains only to employer testing activities performed under Maine Law; it is not a comprehensive study of workplace substance use testing because it does not include individuals who are tested under federal testing programs, which are outside the scope of Maine's testing law. Further, it does not include non-federally regulated employee testing data from some employers who have been exempted under an amendment to the Maine law. Employers who are exempted from the Maine law include employers who have federal drug and alcohol testing programs and are required to test safety-sensitive positions falling under federal regulations.

Practice

The administration of the Maine Drug Testing Law is a collaborative effort of the following agencies:

Maine Department of Labor, Bureau of Labor Standards (BLS)

Reviews and approves substance use testing policies.
Collects the annual reports of substance use testing.
Analyzes testing data and publishes this annual report.

Department of Health and Human Services, Health and Environmental Testing Laboratory

Responsible for the Substance Use Testing for The Workplace Rule which oversees the licensing of laboratories that Maine employers can use for testing of controlled substances. This rule additionally maintains the complete list of substances and their established cutoff levels allowed for workplace substance use testing. For a list of approved testing laboratories, contact the Maine Department of Labor.

Department of Health and Human Services, Division of Licensing and Certification

Any employer with more than 20 full-time employees must have a functioning Employee Assistance Program (EAP) prior to testing their employees, as stated in 26 M.R.S. §683(1). The EAP must be certified by the Department of Health and Human Services and certification must be renewed every two years.

Any employer desiring to undertake substance use testing of current or prospective employees, other than those tested under federal regulations, must submit a substance use testing policy to the Maine Department of Labor. An employer may not commence testing until the MDOL has notified the employer that the policy has been approved and the employer has given proper notice to its employees.

Policy templates developed by the Maine Department of Labor help employers develop substance use policies for their workplaces and make it easier for the MDOL to review company policies. The current policy templates are available on the MDOL website:

https://www.maine.gov/labor/labor_laws/substanceusetesting/policytypes/index.shtml

Mandatory Reporting

Each employer with a drug testing policy approved by the Maine Department of Labor (see Table 5) is required to report its testing activities annually. This is accomplished via a mandatory survey conducted by the Department. Survey notices are presented to all employers with active policies at the beginning of each year to ensure accurate data collection of all testing done in the previous year.

Information gathered from the survey includes the number of tests by type (applicant, probable cause or random/arbitrary), the substances tested for, and the number of positive tests for each substance. Survey data are processed directly into this report.

Results by Type of Test

Table 1 provides the results of employer drug testing in 2023 based on the types of drug tests that were conducted. They include:

Applicant Testing

Applicant testing is for individuals who have been offered employment with a company or placed on a roster of eligibility for employment. Testing is conducted before the individual is hired.

Employee Testing: Probable Cause

Probable cause testing is conducted where reasonable grounds exist to believe that an existing employee may be under the influence of a substance.

Employee Testing: Random/Arbitrary

Random testing is a method of selection in which all employees have an equal potential of selection by random chance. Some employers with random testing policies select from their pool of safety or performance sensitive positions, while most employers include all employees in the selection process. Arbitrary testing is based on criteria unrelated to substance use, such as the anniversary of hire date or client requirement.

Additional substances added to state's testing panel in 2023

Effective November 1, 2023, the Substance Use Testing for The Workplace Rule, 10-144 Code of Maine Rules, chapter 265, was updated to add the following substances to the state's approved workplace substance use testing panel. These substances include Fentanyl, Buprenorphine (Suboxone), Propoxyphene, and the synthetic opioids Hydrocodone, Hydromorphone, Oxycodone, and Oxymorphone. These are noted with an asterisk* in Table 1.

These substances were added due to request by employers in various industries and to also align with the Federal Drug and Alcohol testing panel which added the synthetic opioids to their federal testing panel in 2018.

Maine employers can test for the newly added substances as of November 1, 2023, with an approved testing policy. Employers with existing policies who wish to add the new substances to their policy must submit their updated policy to DOL for approval before testing for them.
