MOTION: The Board-issued complaint arose from an expert's review of the physician's medical records which revealed wide-ranging deficits of documentation. The physician responded to a Board request and took a course on Documentation. The physician's report back to the Board about what she learned was reassuring.

The guidance is as follows: Great care should be taken when completing medical records, ensuring thorough documentation which includes criteria-based diagnoses, a history and physical exam supporting those diagnoses, treatment plans, appropriate discussions with the patient and informed consent, and documented rationale when treatment plans vary from the standard of care.

2. CR24-127 Elizabeth C. B. Wonpat, MD

Dr. Waddell moved to dismiss the complaint with a letter of guidance. Mr. Flaherty seconded the motion.

A roll call vote was taken, and the motion passed unanimously.

MOTION: The Board-issued complaint arose from a report from a professional review committee that expressed significant concern that the physician had failed to initiate timely or appropriate treatment for either the patient's diabetic condition or his GI bleed, and concern with her clinical judgement. The Board obtained an independent expert review of the case, and the reviewer's report identified some concerns and opportunities for improvement, but also identified other issues beyond the physician's control that may have contributed to the patient's clinical course.

The guidance is as follows: This case underscores the importance of balancing attention between the primary presenting issue and concurrent metabolic derangements, ensuring that critical findings are not overlooked due to competing acute concerns.

3. CR24-249 Fred H. Vohr, Jr., MD

Mr. Flaherty moved to dismiss the complaint with a letter of guidance. Ms. Weinstein seconded the motion.

A roll call vote was taken, and the motion passed 8-0-0-1. Mr. Sahrbeck was recused from the matter and left the room.

MOTION: The patient's complaint alleged lack of timely management of her complaint of right arm, shoulder, and neck symptoms. The physician's initial response described the general medical care timeline for the patient from October 13, 2024 to November 28, 2024. Board staff inquired further regarding the physician's evaluation of the patient and regarding institutional SOPs for evaluating residents and responding to resident requests for medical evaluation. The physician responded stating that, in his capacity as site medical director, he "...did not personally see the patient..." and he "...reviewed and approved the referral to orthopedics for the patient's condition." The physician also provided documents containing job descriptions for him and the Nurse Practitioner involved as well as several 'Policy & Procedures' documents. The Board's review of the medical records and the employment and organizational documents showed that the physician's actions were consistent with the facility's SOP and standard of care. However, documentation gaps were identified in the patient medical records, including unclear assessment, missing progress notes, and vague treatment plans.

The guidance is as follows: Adequate patient medical records include clear documentation of assessments and treatment plans and medical decision-making. Within each practice setting, it is beneficial to have a robust process for documenting patient visits and the medical decision-making process for each patient or patient complaint to enhance transparency and accountability in patient care. In addition, comprehensive responses to Board inquiries are helpful to the Board in appropriately resolving complaints and investigations.

4. CR24-268 John S. Persing, MD

Dr. Waddell moved to dismiss the complaint with a letter of guidance. Dr. Nesin seconded the motion.

A roll call vote was taken, and the motion passed unanimously.

MOTION: The patient's complaint arose from the physician's erroneous medical record entries which indicated a personal history of breast cancer for the patient rather than a family history of breast cancer. The physician's response described how this error was made and described his efforts to correct the medical record.

The guidance is as follows: Great care should be taken to verify that each entry in the medical record is accurate and correct, particularly the pre-operative diagnosis. A surgeon is responsible for the accuracy of the documentation even when relying upon ancillary staff to accurately transfer information between documents.

5. CR25-32

Dr. Fay-LeBlanc moved to dismiss the complaint. Dr. Nesin seconded the motion.

A roll call vote was taken, and the motion passed unanimously.

MOTION: A patient complains about the care he received from a physician assistant and alleges the licensee named in the complaint did not supervise this PA appropriately. The licensee reviews portions of the records for this PA and has been pleased with the care she provides, although the PA is licensed to work independently. The patient is also concerned that his medical records not be shared. This was updated immediately in the electronic medical record. Additionally, the complainant is concerned about the reporting to the Bureau of Motor Vehicles by the physician assistant. However, the licensee named in the complaint does support the PA. Appropriate care has been provided.

6. CR25-41

MOTION: A patient’s mother took her 12-day-old daughter to the pediatrician to evaluate “watery and gunky eyes.” The pediatrician was a locums physician working in his first job as an outpatient attending since completing residency. He confirmed with the patient’s mother that the father of the baby had recently been treated for a sexually transmitted infection. Out of an abundance of caution, the pediatrician chose to treat the symptoms with antibiotic eye drops that would cover chlamydial neonatal conjunctivitis. Three weeks after initiating treatment during a visit with a nurse practitioner the mother reported improvement. Eleven months later at the one year well-child visit a watery discharge of the right eye was noted. Ophthalmology evaluation revealed a clogged tear duct. The patient’s mother felt that the diagnosis was missed and the presumptive diagnosis of conjunctivitis at the visit was pejorative.

The treating pediatrician responded and explained both his rationale for conservative antibiotics – a desire to not undertreat a potentially significant infection - as well as his inexperience in practicing as a solo locums pediatrician in a small-town environment. He acknowledged that he would likely approach a similar clinical circumstance in a different manner, and he apologized for the mother’s discomfiture.

MOTION: The complainant alleges that the licensee is in favor of opioid tapering and not prescribing opioids, which the complainant believes represents a danger to society and patients. The complainant also alleges that the licensee misrepresents CDC guidelines. The licensee provided a link to the speaking series, which he believes is the basis for the complaint since the complainant is not a patient. There is no evidence of unprofessional conduct by the licensee, even if the complainant disagrees with the subject matter of the information provided by the licensee.

MOTION: The patient underwent diagnostic colonoscopy and suffered a complication from the procedure (splenic laceration). This is an uncommon but known potential complication of colonoscopy. The patient alleges that the diagnosis and management of the complication were delayed. Review of the medical records shows that appropriate and timely care was provided and does not support the allegation of a delay in diagnosis.

MOTION: The patient complains that a diagnostic procedure was improperly performed and that post-procedure recommendations from the licensee were not clinically reasonable. The patient also alleges that the licensee was not forthcoming with details about the procedure. Review of the complaint, response, patient rebuttal and medical records does not support these allegations. While the relevant procedure indeed produced discordant results necessitating an altered diagnostic plan, this possibility exists with this procedure as documented in the procedural informed consent. The post-procedure plan recommended by the licensee to address the discordant results was clinically reasonable under the circumstances and there is no evidence of unprofessional behavior.

MOTION: A patient complains about the care she received during an emergency room visit, specifically that the licensee did not appropriately examine her, or evaluate her symptoms. In his response, the licensee reviews the testing that was done and his medical decision making. The medical records support the licensee's response. Appropriate care was provided.

MOTION: The complaint is made by a third party who has a personal relationship with the licensee. It alleges numerous acts of unprofessional conduct. The licensee categorically denies the allegations. In the rebuttal, the complainant offers some materials. Despite the information in the rebuttal, there is an insufficient basis of the nexus between the allegations of unprofessional conduct and the licensee's practice in the State of Maine during the time that the licensee was licensed here, which was in the late 2010s for a matter of months. The complaint should be dismissed.

MOTION: The complainant is the parent of a minor child and shares custody with their ex-spouse. There are multiple very specific concerns, including failure to make referrals, improper prescribing, withholding of information, blocking the child from getting care from other providers, failing to follow through on recommendations from a specialty consultant, and blocking the complainant from picking up prescription refills at the pharmacy.

In the response, the provider refutes each of these allegations and chart documentation, portal communication with the complainant and documentation by other providers substantiate the licensee's assertions.

MOTION: The patient complains that she was seen in the hallway of the emergency department and was uncomfortable with the physical examination being done in that setting. She also complains that blood work was not completed at the time of her evaluation. The licensee responds that the patient was given the option to be seen in the hallway or wait for an exam room (the patient denies she was given this option). The licensee also explains that the patient's PCP had prescribed antibiotics for possible MRSA and that the patient had not yet picked up the prescription. The licensee noted that the patient appeared non-toxic and agreed that the symptoms were consistent with MRSA and recommended the patient take the antibiotics that had been prescribed. Review of the records indicates appropriate care was provided.

Ms. Weinstein moved to investigate further, request that the physician provide additional information and request that the physician complete Board-approved CME regarding patient communication and report back what she gained from the course. Dr. Ng seconded the motion.
