Gold Futures Challenge, offered by Asian American Futures and Gold House, is an online grant competition to benefit Asian American and Pacific Islander organizations in the United States. The Challenge will award ten prizes ranging from $25,000 to $100,000 to Asian American and Pacific Islander organizations for projects that ensure that AAPI communities are seen, heard, empowered, and united. In addition to monetary prizes to support the winning programs, our winners will also receive the following non- monetary awards and opportunities: • All TEN FINALISTS will receive a membership		Funding Type	Deadline Jul-31-2021 into the Gold House Future Network: a community of leading next generation API creatives and founders. Future Network members receive career acceleration, mentoring and/or skill-building, and directed networking across industries. The TOP FIVE FINALISTS will receive a 1-year membership to Resilia, a technology platform that helps nonprofits to increase their capacity and funders to scale impact.
				The prize amounts will be determined by public vote from a pool of ten finalists chosen by the Challenge's Selection Committee. Preference may be given to organizations that serve historically underrepresented communities; organizations, leaders, or communities who are often overlooked by traditional forms of philanthropy; communities with less access to power and opportunity; and/or causes that are harder to fund. Both new and existing projects are eligible for submission.

				The Lenny Zakim Fund works to learn directly from those most impacted by inequity and provide the funding, essential resources, and other support to create lasting change, develop deep relationships, and build bridges among people and communities to advance social, economic, and racial justice. To that end, the fund is accepting applications for its 2022 grant cycle from grassroots organizations in eastern Massachusetts.
				Unrestricted grants of general operating support will be awarded to organizations working in the areas of child and youth development and education; access to food, housing, and economic opportunity; health promotion and accessibility; organizing and support for immigrants and refugees; violence prevention, criminal justice reform and family outreach; LGBTQ community support and organizing; and civil and human rights advocacy and support. Grants will range from $1,000 to $20,000, with new grantees receiving $7,500 on average. The fund strongly encourages potential applicants to attend an informational session or watch a recording before applying. Small, independent, grassroots organizations with limited ability to raise other funds will receive priority, and LZF aims to partner with organizations whose leadership mirrors the communities they serve while meeting critical needs. In general, the fund does not fund organizations with budgets that exceed $350,000. For the 2021 annual grant cycle, the median budget size for new grantees is $173,079, while the average budget size is $152,204. The fund prioritizes organizations led by people of color or have people of color in at least 50 percent of leadership roles. Eligible applicants include nonprofits based in Massachusetts that have an IRS 501(c)(3) status or a documented fiscal agent that has 501(c)(3) status. 				jobs. The FEED Act would provide FEMA funds at the state and local level to support restaurant/non-profit partnerships as they work to provide fresh meals for communities in need. Historically, FEMA funds up to 75% of responses to disasters, while cities and states are on the hook for the other 25%. This can get expensive, especially in regions that are especially hard-hit by natural and other disasters – and it means that any large-scale restaurant response program would get prohibitively pricey for cities to sustain.
				The FEED Act has passed in the House several times, but has not yet been made into law. In early 2021, though, President Biden issued a Presidential Order with a narrower scope than the FEED Act: it raised FEMA's financial responsibility for emergency protective measures from 75% to 100% through September 2021, potentially allowing cities and states to get fully reimbursed for restaurant programs addressing food meals to individuals in need.

				Specifically, during the period following the President's emergency declaration of March 13, 2020, and under any subsequent major disaster declaration that supersedes it, FEMA may approve plans from state, local, and Indian tribal governments that (1) establish contracts with small and mid-

U.S. priorities include: (1) Developing Futures in Education: Through the Developing Futures in Education program; GE Foundation has committed nearly $150 million to six U.S. school districts to improve student achievement through a rigorous math and science curriculum; professional development opportunities for teachers; and management capacity improvement. (2) Employee Programs: Through the GE Foundation Matching Gifts Program; GE employees can donate to an eligible nonprofit organization and GE Foundation will provide a dollar-for-dollar match. Total gifts in 2012 reached nearly $38 million. (3) Disaster Relief: When disasters strike; the GE family commits resources and employee support to assist affected communities. GE Foundation commits resources via grants to relief organizations and through the GE Foundation Matching Gifts Program. In addition; GE volunteers work through networks at the disaster sites to organize local support and align employees in the region. 	Program is to encourage the attainment of knowledge and skills and the practice of responsible citizenship through access to effective learning opportunities. The foundation is committed to improving the "quality of life" of children by supporting programs which encourage children to reach their fullest potential. The best chance a child has to reach that goal is to be provided with sufficient education, health care, housing, and love. As one of the primary outlets of human creativity, art is a vital resource in developing and maintaining healthy communities.
	As school budgets are often short on cultural opportunities, the foundation will favor educational programs that encourage students to release their creativity, inspire them to learn, and empower them with achievement.
•	CHILDREN'S ADVOCACY: Bettering the lives of children is central to CLF's purpose. Ultimately, the goal is to help children reach their fullest potential, which means sufficient education, healthcare, shelter and care. The foundation sponsors programs that mitigate the hardship that confronts and impedes too many children. This means targeting issues like child abuse, adequate foster housing, literacy and hunger. Improving children's education is essential to achieving positive outcomes for children and youth of all and families can thrive. After-school programs enhance and strengthen the educational experience, helping to keep children in school,

Hurricane Katrina wreaked havoc on the Gulf Coast in 2005, damaging 134,000 homes and displacing 400,000 people in the City of New Orleans alone. With over $100 billion in damage, Katrina was the costliest hurricane in U.S. history. In 2012, Superstorm Sandy became the second costliest hurricane in U.S. history, causing more than $70 billion in destruction and damaging more than 100,000 homes on Long Island and more than 69,000 homes in New York City. In major disasters like Katrina and Sandy, the poorest and most vulnerable populations are often the hardest hit. This session examines the impacts of Katrina and Sandy on public housing communities in New Orleans, New York City, and Long Island; it will also discuss the complex challenges and opportunities that come from working with low-income communities and public housing authorities in the wake of a disaster. It will focus on Enterprise Community Partners' role in the successful redevelopment of the New Orleans Faubourg Lafitte community, the New York City Housing Authority's innovative retrofit of Brookyln's Red Hook Houses, and the New York State Governor's Office of Storm Recovery's pilot project to relocate the Moxey A. levels should be developed to help maintain the health, safety and independence of the whole community. Older adults and people with disabilities have unique and special needs to consider, however. The ACL Emergency Preparedness page offers best practices and resources that can help. The Administration for Community Living (ACL) website offers resources that can help older adults and emergencies. You can also find resources for families. caregivers, service providers, and communities.

EMERGENCY PREPAREDNESS FOR OLDER ADULTS AND PEOPLE WITH DISABILITIES Disasters, man-made or natural, can happen at anytime, anywhere, and vary in magnitude. Older adults and people with disabilities often have unique needs during a crisis. For example, approximately half of those over age 65 have two or more chronic health problems, such as heart disease, diabetes, or Alzheimer's disease. These conditions increase a person's vulnerability during periods of time without food, water, shelter, and adequate rest. People with disabilities may also have a wider variety of functional limitations, sometimes requiring more supports, many of which are often in short supply during a crisis event. It is critical that individuals, service providers, and communities actively engage in emergency planning.
Each person has a responsibility to prepare for potential crisis and make a plan for how to respond. Providers of long-term services and supports must train staff in all emergency actions (evacuation, lock-down, shelter-in-place). Community leaders and first-responders must be prepared to support the health and safety needs of older adults and people with disabilities, engage these populations in the planning process, and—to the maximum extent possible—provide services and supports in integrated Functional Needs Support Shelters.
The only way to ensure the well-being of older adults and people with disabilities during a crisis is through a "whole-community" approach to preparedness.
AGING AND DISABILITY NETWORKS
The aging and disability networks are made up of local, state, and national organizations and committed advocates working to support older adults and people with disabilities.
Some organizations focus on a particular type of disability, age group, or type of service, whereas others have a more comprehensive mission.
There are many similarities in the services and supports older adults and people with disabilities need in order to live independently. Increasingly, the aging and disability networks are working together at state and local levels, and ACL is frequently asked for help in forging these new collaborative relationships. Together, the communities have

Under the National Response Framework (NRF) and authorities of the Stafford Act, USACE works under the direction of FEMA as a member of the federal team to support State and Local governments in responding to major disasters. USACE also has its own authority to directly respond to State and Local needs related to flooding or coastal emergencies under Public Law 84-99. The NRF defines 15 Emergency Support Functions (ESF's) with each having a designated Coordinating Agency. As the coordinating and primary agency for Emergency Support Function #3 – Public Works and Engineering, USACE is responsible for coordinating and executing several missions in the post-disaster environment. The core missions are listed below. However, it is commonplace for FEMA to request additional support and technical assistance beyond these core mission areas: Temporary Emergency Power. Debris Management. Temporary Roofing. Infrastructure Assessment, Technical Assistance and Water/Wastewater Response. Support to Urban Search & Rescue (US&R). Allocated: $0	This Research Roadmap identifies key research opportunities for PD&R to highlight for Congress in budget requests and Annual Evaluation Plans while assuring strategic alignment to generate a robust pipeline of research. PD&R focuses on finding definitive answers to questions about what programs work and how they can be made better, through quick-turnaround studies and long-term evaluations that systematically assess impacts and outcomes and shed light on paths to improvement. In this way, PD&R helps drive HUD's evidence-based policymaking, promoting the best possible policies and programs through accurate data, rigorous research, and sound policy advice. To support this leadership role, PD&R developed the HUD Research Roadmap, which integrates extensive input from diverse stakeholder groups to define a 5-year research agenda. This Research Roadmap identifies key research opportunities for PD&R to highlight for Congress in budget requests and Annual Evaluation Plans while assuring strategic alignment to generate a robust pipeline of research. More than previous Roadmaps, this plan integrates evidence-building priorities for research and data collection from across the Department. This Roadmap represents a renewed process of stakeholder outreach and collaboration to identify the most policy-relevant and timely research questions and evidence-building challenges in the fields of housing and community development. Research is essential to helping the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development achieve its mission to create strong, sustainable, inclusive communities and quality, affordable homes for all. In November, HUD's Office of Policy Development and Research published the Research Roadmap: 2020 Update , HUD's research agenda and plans to support evidence-based policymaking for the Department. Websites containing: Data & visualizations regarding crops & forecasts. Publications on nation & international agricultural market topics & trends. The mission of USDA's Economic Research Service is to anticipate trends and emerging issues in agriculture, food, the environment, and rural America and to conduct high-quality, objective economic research to inform and enhance public and private decision making. ERS shapes its research program and products to serve those who routinely make or influence public policy and program decisions. Key clientele include White House and USDA policy officials; the U.S. Congress; program administrators/managers; other Federal agencies; State and local government officials; and organizations, including farm and industry groups. ERS research provides context for and informs the decisions that affect the agricultural sector, which in turn benefits everyone with efficient stewardship of our agricultural resources and the economic prosperity of the sector. As a federal statistical agency covered by the Office of Management and Budget's (OMB) Statistical Policy Directives, ERS is responsible for ensuring the quality, objectivity, and transparency of the statistical information it provides. Our policies and procedures for publishing research and data are designed to ensure that we provide high quality and objective analysis. ERS research and analysis covers a broad range of economic and policy topics: Agricultural Economy – farm sector performance and farm households' well-being; farm size and concentration; market analysis, 	[Community Planning and Capacity Building, Economic, Natural and Cultural Resources]	Deadline not identified.
