Members Joint Standing Committee on Taxation

The Office of Tax Policy is pleased to submit to the Committee a detailed report on state income tax and sales tax expenditures. For purposes of this report, 36 M.R.S.A. § 199-B defines tax expenditure as any provision of state law that results in the reduction of tax revenue due to special exclusions, exemptions, deductions, credits, preferential rates or deferral of tax liability.

We have excluded from the definition tax expenditures that are (1) required under federal mandate (e.g., the sales tax exclusion for food stamp purchases), (2) created at the state level to maintain conformity with traditional tax law when the federal government deviates from that law because it creates credits that the state does not adopt (e.g., the subtraction modification associated with federal work opportunity credit), or (3) are the result of the state taxing certain activities under a different tax system (e.g., the income of a financial institution that is an S corporation).

This report provides no recommendation regarding the amendment, repeal or replacement of any tax expenditure. Such recommendations are included in the Governor's biennial budget or separate legislation submitted by the Administration.

If you have any questions, please do not hesitate to contact me.

Sincerely,

Introduction: TAX EXPENDITURES

I. Introduction

State law requires Maine Revenue Services to provide two tax expenditure reports every odd-numbered year. The first report must be included in the state budget document. 5 M.R.S.A. §1664 provides that the document specifically includes

. . . the estimated loss in revenue during the last completed fiscal year and the fiscal year in progress, and the anticipated loss in revenue for each fiscal year of the ensuing biennium, caused by the tax expenditures provided in Maine statutes; the term "tax expenditures" means those State tax revenue losses attributable to provisions of Maine tax laws which allow a special exclusion, exemption or deduction or which provide a specific credit, a preferential rate of tax or a deferral of tax liability.

The second report, required by 36 M.R.S.A. § 199-B, must be submitted to the Joint Standing Committee on Taxation by February 15th of each odd-numbered year. This report must contain a summary of each tax expenditure, a description of the purpose and background of the tax expenditure and the groups likely to benefit from the tax expenditure, an estimate of the cost of the tax expenditure for the current biennium, any issues regarding tax expenditures that need to be considered by the Legislature, and any recommendation regarding the amendment, repeal or replacement of the tax expenditure.”

The Governor’s budget submission for the 2026-27 biennium includes the first report. This report meets the second statutory requirement.

The tax expenditure budget is a concept that was developed to assure a budget review process for tax preferences similar to the review required for direct expenditure programs. The federal government and most state governments engage in a periodic review of tax expenditures. Generally, tax expenditures provide tax incentives designed to encourage certain activities by taxpayers or provide relief to taxpayers in special circumstances. Many tax expenditures are the equivalent of a governmental subsidy in which the foregone tax revenue is essentially a direct budget outlay to specific groups of taxpayers.

II. Identifying Tax Expenditures

Tax expenditures are defined relative to a benchmark “normal tax law.” Thus, identifying tax expenditures requires defining normal tax law. Tax expenditures are then aspects of the law that reduce revenue relative to normal tax law.

For the income tax the report adopts the same definition of normal income tax law as the Congressional Joint Committee on Taxation uses to identify federal income tax expenditures. The normal law tax structure includes personal exemptions, the standard deduction, the current tax rate schedule, and business expenses deductions. The base for normal law is much broader than taxable income. Tax expenditures are exclusions, exemptions, or deductions that reduce taxable income below the “normal law” tax base and tax credits, preferential tax rates, or income tax deferral that reduce income tax liability.

Defining normal sales tax law is complicated because there are competing theoretical constructs for what this benchmark should be. One possibility is that the normal sales tax base is defined by 36 M.S.R.A. § 1811 and includes “all tangible personal property and taxable services sold at retail in this state.” Under this definition, sales tax exclusions for services are not tax expenditures but sales tax exemptions for business purchases of tangible personal property are tax expenditures. Another possibility is that the normal sales tax base is all retail purchases for consumption. In this case, sales tax exclusions for services are tax expenditures but sales tax exemptions for business purchases of tangible personal property are not tax expenditures because these purchases are not consumption. This report defines the normal sales tax base as the combination of these two bases. Thus, the benchmark base includes all sales of tangible personal property and services sold at retail, and both exemptions for business purchases and exclusions for the purchase of services are counted as tax expenditures.

The report uses broad definitions of the benchmark income and sales tax bases to maximize the number of tax expenditures identified and thus provide the most information to legislators. The choice of benchmark law does not reflect a judgment that benchmark law is preferred to current law. One area where the choice of normal law is important is when making cross-state comparisons of tax expenditures, as different choices of normal law will lead to different lists of expenditures even when states have identical tax policies.

There are a few other important considerations for the definition of normal tax law in this report. The report defines normal law to exclude as expenditure those parts of the law that are (1) established by federal mandate (e.g., the sale tax exclusion for food stamp purchases), (2) created at the state level to maintain conformity with normal tax law when the federal government deviates from that law because it creates credits that the state does not adopt (e.g., the subtraction modification associated with federal work opportunity credit), or (3) the result of the state taxing certain activities under a different tax system (e.g., the income of a financial institution that is an S corporation).

III. Estimating the Size of Tax Expenditures

A) General Conceptual issues

In estimating the revenue loss attributed to a tax expenditure, it is assumed that the provision of law granting special tax treatment is repealed and that no other changes in tax law, taxpayer behavior or general economic activity occur as a result of its repeal. Consequently, it should not be concluded that the repeal of any of these tax expenditures will necessarily generate the amount of revenue which they are estimated to forego. Differences between the tax expenditure estimate and the revenue raised by repeal can be especially large for provisions related to timing, such as depreciation and deferral of income recognition, and for tax credits where carryforwards are a large component of the credit. In these cases, and especially in the near term, the revenue gain from ending a tax expenditure may be significantly different from the revenue cost of maintaining the expenditure. Sales tax expenditure estimates do not generally account for the availability of other exemptions that could apply and therefore can significantly overstate the revenue that would be raised by repeal.

General Fund expenditures are reported for sales tax and income tax. Due to local government revenue sharing, these General Fund expenditures are 95% of the total expenditure in all fiscal years covered by this report.

B) Sales Tax

Sales tax expenditure estimates are particularly challenging to estimate. The sales tax return does not contain data pertinent to most exemptions and external data sources to inform the expenditure estimates do not exist in many cases. State-level consumption and business intermediate input and investment expenditures data would be the most relevant data for estimating expenditures but is unavailable.

Many expenditure estimates cite the sales tax model as the source. The sales tax model refers to national data on consumption and business expenditures multiplied by an estimated Maine share, a policy mapping of those expenditures to sales tax liability, and a simple data aging process. Due to limitations with the source data and, in many cases, an imperfect correspondence between the exemption in law and the policy mapping, estimates based on the sales tax model are subject to significant uncertainty.

Due to the numerous sales tax exemptions and the challenges of estimating the revenue lost from the exemptions, a few practical considerations are important.

First, for almost all sales tax expenditures, a legislative proposal to eliminate the exemption would spur a more thorough review of the expenditure estimate. The results of a more thorough review could result in significant changes.

Second, many sales tax expenditure estimates are reported as ranges due to the challenges of estimating the expenditure. Many of the range estimates are the same as the prior tax expenditure report and were not revisited for this report.

C) Income Tax

Maine's individual and corporate income tax systems are based upon the federal definitions of adjusted gross income and taxable income. Therefore, certain tax expenditures, referred to as "conformity tax expenditures" are authorized by continued acceptance of the provisions of the Internal Revenue Code.

Tax expenditures for tax credits, Maine subtraction modifications, itemized deductions, and "above-the-line" deductions to Federal Adjusted Gross income are based on tax data and therefore should be reliably estimated for FY 2024. For forecast periods, some tax credits and minor deductions can be volatile because the benefits are concentrated with one or two taxpayers.

Tax expenditures arising from the definition of federal total income present numerous challenges. First, there is a paucity of data available to estimate these expenditures. Our estimates rely on the Joint Committee on Taxation's Estimates of Federal Tax Expenditures for Fiscal Years 2024-2028 (JCX-48-

24, December 21, 2024). “Sharing down” national estimates from the JCT is the standard approach to estimating these expenditures, but the results are unreliable. Second, many of these provisions arguably belong in normal State tax law, as conformity to the federal law is common or near-universal across states, decoupling would create significant challenges, and the state has a long history of conforming to the provision. Finally, related to the first two points, understanding the implications of decoupling from many of these provisions would require a significant amount of legal and economic research and is outside the scope of this report.

For these reasons, income tax expenditures related to the definition of total income are only listed for some of the largest expenditures and items related to recent policy changes or attention. This report includes more detail on the remaining tax expenditures in Appendix D. JCT classifies tax expenditures by function; Appendix D lists the federal expenditures that flow through to Maine and are not elsewhere included in the report by function and shows the estimated federal expenditure. For each function or group of functions, a wide range for the total state expenditure is also included. A range is reported both because of the uncertainty involved with going from national to state estimates and the fact that interaction effects mean the sum of the individual estimates is different than the total expenditure.

IV. Changes to Tax Expenditure Report

The Legislature enacted three new income tax expenditures related to tax credits since the last report. Two new credits, the Dirigo Business Incentives Credit and the credit for investment in qualified professional baseball facilities in the state, were created. Furthermore, the dependent exemption tax credit was made refundable starting in 2024. The part of the credit that offsets tax liability is considered part of reference tax law and not a tax expenditure, like other features of the individual income tax code such as personal exemptions for self and spouse and the standard deduction. The credit amount that exceeds tax liability is, however, considered a tax expenditure and has been added to the report.

In addition to these new expenditures, the Property Tax Fairness Credit and pension income deduction were significantly expanded since the last report. One tax expenditure, the credit for certain modifications for qualified expenses incurred to make a homestead accessible to an individual with a disability or physical hardship, was repealed, except for carryforwards, beginning in tax year 2023 and has been removed from this report.

Since the last report one new sales tax expenditure was added, an exemption for purchases by nonprofit organizations that have been determined by the IRS to be exempt from federal income taxation under Section 501(c)(3), if the purchases are to be used primarily for the purposes for which the nonprofit organization was organized. Many such organizations were already exempt under other sales tax exemptions for specific categories of nonprofit organizations.

Chapter 1: INCOME TAX (Personal and Corporation) and PROPERTY TAX REIMBURSEMENTS

1.001 Reimbursement for business equipment tax exemption to municipalities.

36 M.R.S.A. § 691

Under this provision, qualified business equipment first subject to property tax assessment on or after April 1, 2008 will be exempt from property taxes. The state reimburses municipalities for property revenue loss according to the following schedule: 100% in 2008, 90% in 2009, 80% in 2010, 70% in 2011, 60% in 2012, and for years beginning 2013 and for subsequent years, 50%. Municipalities where the total value of business personal property exceeds 5% of total taxable value plus the value of exempt business equipment can receive an enhanced reimbursement according to the following formula:

There is also additional reimbursement provided for municipalities with respect to revenues related to tax increment financing revenues used by municipalities on their own qualifying tax increment financing projects.

Reason(s) for exemption

Provides an incentive for business to make new investments that will foster economic development.

1.002 Reimbursement for taxes paid on certain business property (BETR).

36 M.R.S.A. Chapter 915

A business against which property taxes have been assessed with respect to eligible property (generally qualified business property first placed in service in Maine, or constituting construction in progress commenced in Maine, after April 1, 1995 and before April 2, 2007 (with the exception of certain retail property newly placed in service after that date that remains eligible for BETR reimbursement)) and who has paid those taxes is entitled to reimbursement of those taxes from the State. The reimbursement is 100% of the taxes assessed and paid with respect to eligible property for the first 12 years the property tax was paid. 36 M.R.S.A. § 5125

An individual who has claimed itemized deductions from federal adjusted gross income in determining the individual's federal taxable income for the taxable year may claim itemized deductions from Maine adjusted gross income.

The sum of an individual's itemized deductions is: (1) reduced by any state income or sales tax; (2) increased by any interest or expense incurred in the production of the individual's Maine income that was not deducted in determining the individual's federal taxable income; (3) reduced by any amount of deduction attributable to income taxable to financial institutions; (4) reduced by any amount attributable to interest or expenses incurred in the production of income exempt from tax; and (5) reduced by any amount included in the basis of the family development account reserve fund credit.

For tax years beginning in 2018 the federal itemized deduction for all state and local taxes is limited to $10,000. Taxpayers can add back any real estate and personal property taxes that are excluded from federal itemized deductions because of this limit.

Itemized deductions, except for the deduction for medical expenses, are subject to a cap that is adjusted for inflation. In tax year 2024 the cap is $35,250. Itemized deductions are reduced for high-income taxpayers. 1.043 Maine Capital Investment Credit.

36 M.R.S.A. § 5219-NN

Taxpayers are allowed a credit based on federal bonus depreciation for eligible property placed in service in Maine.

The credit base equals the bonus depreciation addition modification required under 36 M.R.S. § 5122(1)(KK)(1) related to property placed in service in Maine and used in Maine continuously for at least 12 months following the date the property is placed in service. This amount represents the net increase in the federal depreciation deduction due to bonus depreciation. The credit does not apply to the Maine financial institutions franchise tax and is prohibited with respect to certain property.

For individual taxpayers, the credit percentage is 7% for tax years beginning after 2014 and before 2020 and 1.2% for tax years beginning in 2020 and later. For corporate taxpayers, the credit percentage is 9% for tax years beginning after 2014 and before 2020 and 1.2% for tax years beginning in 2020 and later.

Investments placed in service during a taxable year beginning on or after January 1, 2025 are ineligible for the Maine Capital Investment Credit. Carryforward credits amounts can still be claimed after 2024.

For credits claimed on investments occurring in tax years 2020 and later, taxpayers can recapture the disallowed federal depreciation that represents the credit base in future tax years. For the credit in earlier years, taxpayers are prohibited from recapturing the depreciation addback in future tax years.

Any unused portion of the credit may be carried forward to the following year or years for a period not to exceed 20 years.

The TCJA increased bonus depreciation to 100% for property placed in service after 9/27/2017 and expanded the definition of qualified property to include used equipment. Bonus depreciation is reduced to 80% for investments placed in service in 2023 and 60% for investments placed in service in 2024.

The General Fund revenue loss reported below represents the estimated revenue impact of tax credits for investments occurring in tax years 2020 and later. 36 M.R.S.A. § 5219-RR

A nonrefundable income tax credit is available to shipbuilders who meet employment and investment thresholds. Applicants must be certified by the Commissioner of Economic Development to receive the credit. Certification requires, among other things, that the applicant employs at least 5,000 qualified workers and does not receive Pine Tree Zone or ETIF benefits. The credit equals $3 million per year beginning in the year when cumulative qualified investments from January 1, 2018 onwards exceed $100,000,000, or 2020, whichever is later. The credit can be increased up to $3.5 million, but not more than 3% of post-2017 cumulative investment, if the applicant satisfies certain employment thresholds. The credit is reduced if qualified employment falls below 5,500, and taxpayers with qualified employment below 4,000 cannot claim the credit. Unused credits cannot be carried forward.

Taxpayers may claim the credit for 10 consecutive years. This limitation is extended to 15 consecutive tax years if the taxpayer makes an additional $100 million investment.

2.045 Sales through coin-operated vending machines.

Sales of products for internal human consumption when sold through coin-operated vending machines by a person more than 50% of whose gross receipts from the retail sale of tangible personal property are derived from sales through vending machines. The status of products sold through vending machines depends upon the product being sold and the type of business activity of the retailer. “Coin-operated vending machines” do not include “snack boxes” that require purchasers to be on their honor in paying for the selected items.

This exemption only applies to sales of products for internal human consumption by a person who primarily is a vending company. Although the exemption exists for the sale, the items are subject to tax based on the seller’s cost. “Products for internal human consumption” means: “edible products sold for human nutrition or refreshment and containers or utensils provided simultaneously for the consumption of these products. It does not include spirituous, malt or vinous liquors, medicines, tonics, vitamins, dietary supplements or cigarettes”. See Title 36 MRSA section 1752, subsection 5-A.

Items that come within the scope of this definition are sandwiches, chips, ice cream, candy, soft drinks and other food items. Also included within this definition are the paper plates, cups, utensils and packaging materials for these items. Chewing gum is not for “internal human consumption”.

Items, other than those mentioned above, when sold through vending machines are retail sales and subject to tax on the selling price. Examples of such items are cigarettes, toys, gum, health and beauty aids and other goods not for “internal human consumption”.

When 50% or less of a retailer’s retail sales take place through coin-operated vending machines, the retailer does not qualify for this exemption.

Casual sales are exempt from tax. "Casual sale" means an isolated transaction in which tangible personal property or a taxable service is sold other than in the ordinary course of repeated and successive transactions of like character by the person making the sale. "Casual sales" include transactions at a bazaar, fair, rummage sale, picnic or similar event by a civic, religious or fraternal organization that is not a registered retailer. The sale by a registered retailer of tangible personal property that that retailer has used in the course of the retailer's business is not a "casual sale" if that property is of like character to that sold by the retailer in the ordinary course of repeated and successive transactions. "Casual sale" does not include any transaction in which a retailer sells tangible personal property or a taxable service on behalf of the owner of that property or the provider of that service.

Casual sales involving the sale of camper trailers, truck campers, motor vehicles, special mobile equipment except farm tractors and lumber harvesting vehicles or loaders, livestock trailers, watercraft or aircraft (From July 1, 2011 to June 30, 2033 all sales of aircraft are exempt.) except those sold for resale at retail sale or to a corporation, partnership, limited liability company or limited liability partnership when the seller is the owner of 50% or more of the common stock of the corporation or of the ownership interests in the partnership, limited liability company or limited liability partnership are subject to tax.

The sales tax must be levied upon all casual rentals of living quarters in a hotel, rooming house or tourist or trailer camp. This does not apply to the rental of living quarters rented for a total of fewer than 15 days in the calendar year, except that a person who owns and offers for rental more than one property in the State during the calendar year is liable for collecting sales tax with respect to the rental of each unit regardless of the number of days for which it is rented.

When individuals who are not in the business of selling goods dispose of their own used household items by selling them at a yard sale or similar event, or by placing an advertisement in the classified section of a newspaper, they are making casual sales. If the property sold is a motor vehicle, aircraft, watercraft, camper trailer, livestock trailer or special mobile equipment, the purchaser is responsible for the payment of the sales tax directly to the State.

[1] Estimated tax expenditure of less than $50 million.

\A Estimate includes both bonus depreciation and general acceleration under MACRS. Maine decouples from bonus depreciation and provides the Maine Capital Investment Credit (MCIC), based on federal bonus depreciation, for property placed in service in Maine. The MCIC is listed separately in this report. The reported range below incorporates a reduction in this tax expenditure for bonus depreciation, but the size of the adjustment is uncertain and contributes to the large range of the total expenditure. Further research is required to estimate the revenue impact of MACRS relative to sec. 168(g) depreciation.

\B A separate estimate of the tax expenditure for HSA contributions reported as an above-the-line deduction on the 1040 is included in this report. The HSA expenditure estimate also includes pre-tax contributions from wages and tax-free inside buildup. The above-the-line deduction is not considered when reporting the state expenditure range.

\C A separate estimate of the tax expenditure for deductible IRA contributions is included in this report. The traditional IRA expenditure estimate also includes tax-free inside buildup. The above-the-line deduction is not considered when reporting the state expenditure range.

Appendix E: Tax Incidence Report

This appendix reports estimates of the distribution of state and local taxes by tax family in 2023. The interested reader should reference the Maine State Tax Expenditure Report 2020-2021 for a discussion of tax incidence concepts and details about the estimates.

Tables 1 and 2 show the distribution of Maine individual income tax liability for tax year 2023. These tables are based on return information contained in the Maine tax data warehouse. Table 1 shows the distribution of tax returns by Maine Adjusted Gross income (MAGI) groups with no adjustment for family size. The lack of family size adjustment implicitly treats taxpayers with the same income as having the same economic wellbeing regardless of family size. Table 2 divides MAGI by the square root of family size and defines income groups by the number of people represented in each group rather than the number of returns.¹

A number of high-income resident taxpayers have low Maine income tax liability because a significant share of their income is sourced to other states, they pay taxes to those states, and they receive a Maine tax credit for the income tax paid to those other jurisdictions. This situation is arguably distinct from the case of a high-income taxpayer with low Maine income tax liability due to other tax credits or income exemptions. For this reason, the last set of columns in Tables 1 and 2 combines the credit for income taxes paid to other jurisdictions and Maine income tax liability.

The remaining tables are based on the Maine tax model. These tables show the tax liability distribution by tax family and expanded income. Unlike Tables 1 and 2, these tables include income tax nonfilers². Taxes are divided into two groups: taxes imposed directly on individuals (individual income tax, sales and excise tax levied on consumers, and property tax on owner-occupied housing) and business taxes (sales tax on business intermediate goods and investment purchases, corporate income tax, and other property tax). The amount and distribution of business taxes shifted to Maine residents is especially uncertain because the estimates rely on strong assumptions.

² The discrepancy between individual income tax liability in Table 1 and Table 3 is due to several factors. First, model estimates include projections of amended returns and compliance efforts beyond the time period covered by Table 1. Second, certain policy changes after the model base year are not incorporated into the tax model. Third, the tax liability of dependents is included with their tax family in Table 3 and excluded from Table 1.
