FINAL ORDER

This matter came before the Court for final disposition on August 17, 2004. Bar Counsel J. Scott Davis, Esq. represented the Board and William D. Robitzek, Esq. represented the Respondent Attorney ("Attorney") Patricia Danisinka-Washburn.

The Court finds that the terms and conditions of the Disciplinary Order of September 26, 2003 have been satisfactorily complied with by the Attorney, except as noted below. The Court hereby ORDERS that, as of September 26, 2004, the Attorney is reinstated to practice law in Maine.

Because of difficulties in finding appropriate continuing legal education (CLE) courses in practice management during the pendency of the suspension, the Court further ORDERS that the Attorney's reinstatement is conditioned upon her attendance at this Fall's Maine State Bar Association (MSBA) "Bridging the Gap" seminar and the MSBA May 2005 "Small and Solo Practitioner Symposium". The hours in attendance at these seminars will be credited towards her respective annual CLE requirement as appropriate.

In the event the Attorney should fail to comply with these CLE conditions, Bar Counsel may petition this Court for such sanctions as are appropriate in the circumstances. At the submission to Bar Counsel of evidence of the Attorney's attendance at both these seminars, the Attorney's reinstatement will be deemed no longer conditional.

Pursuant to Paragraph 15 of the earlier Disciplinary Order, the Court now terminates Lawrence Bloom's appointment as the Attorney's mentor, as of this date with the Court's and counsel's thanks for his most beneficial and important service.
